Victoria Man Named to New Anti-Combines Commission

Victorian A. S. Whiteley has been appointed by Justice Minister Stuart Garson to be a member of a new three-man anti-combines commission, according to The Canadian Press.

C. Rhodes Smith, Manitoba's attorney-general, will be chairman of the new board. Guy Favreau, Montreal lawyer, is the third member.

Appointment of the new commission was recommended by the MacQuarrie committee on combines which spent two years making a general study of Canada's combines laws.

The committee, headed by Mr. Justice J. H. MacQuarrie of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court, recommended, in effect, that the current combines investigation office be split up with the new commission sitting in judgment on combines investigations made by Mr. MacDonald.

The new commission will give alleged offenders an opportunity to defend their actions in private hearings before making a report to the justice minister.

It still will be up to the justice minister to decide whether any prosecution will be undertaken.

New regulations, which become effective Nov. 1, strengthen the combines law to:

REPERCUSSIONS

B.C. Cattle Shot by U.S. Govt. Worker

PENTICTON, B.C., Aug. 28 (BUP).—The shooting of two calves on what is claimed to be British Columbia soil by an employee of the U.S. Bureau of Animal Industry may cause international repercussions.

The unidentified American shot the seven-week-old calves, owned by Osoyoos cattleman Val Haynes, in the only area which might still be considered in dispute by the two nations.

The calves had wandered only a minute or two before from their mothers and outside a fence set up by Haynes, who says the fence was 30 feet from the international boundary.

In 1908, President Theodore Roosevelt set aside a 30-foot strip along the boundary on the U.S. side as a public domain providing the land was not already patented, and Canadian experts thought their government had done the same about the same time.

Haynes said two empty shells were found close to the fence and on property claimed by Canada under the old laws, but the American said U.S. regulations on the embargo of cattle from Canada included instructions to shoot any cattle, whether Canadian or American, which wandered on Canadian soil and then moved over the 49th parallel.

Haynes sent a telegram of protest to Washington, D.C., and the Canadian officials thought the International Joint Boundary Commission would hear the dispute.

Yankees Buy Blackwell To Aid Drive

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP).—The New York Yankees today purchased Ewell Blackwell from the Cincinnati Reds for an unannounced sum of cash and pitcher Johnny Schemm.

General manager George Weiss of the Yankees, who announced the deal, said several other players, now in the minors, might be involved in the transaction.

Blackwell, who will be 30 in October, is in the midst of a disappointing season with the Reds. He has won only three games and lost 12. Recently recovered from an illness, he has not pitched in three weeks.

Babe Pratt Royals' Coach

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 28 (BUP).—Walter "Babe" Pratt, long-time top defenseman of the National Hockey League, returned to the New Westminster Royals of the Western League today when he signed a one-year contract as coach.

Co-owner Kenny MacKenzie of the Royals said Pratt probably would not play many games and would stay mostly on the bench.

Bennett Plans Election Without Calling House

Constitutional Crisis Looms for Province

By GORDON FORBES

Premier W. A. C. Bennett is now definitely planning to ask Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace for a general election early in November without first meeting the Legislature.

Premier Bennett has made no public statement regarding his intentions, but highly informed sources said today Premier Bennett wants the general election soon to clarify the indecisive results of the last election.

It is understood all the technical and constitutional difficulties haven't been worked out, but the present feeling of the cabinet is that an early general election is the wisest policy.

A request for a general election by the premier will force a constitutional crisis of the first magnitude in this province.

The crisis will develop because of the premier's request for an election without first calling the Legislature into session.

Usual procedure for calling an election is for the Legislature to be dissolved, or the government to be defeated on the floor of the House. One of these events usually occurs before a general election is called.

But, if Premier Bennett asks the lieutenant-governor for an election without calling the Legislature into session to determine if he can govern or not, the lieutenant-governor will have a decision to make which could make history.

He would have to decide whether to grant the general election request, or simply accept Premier Bennett's resignation and call on the leader of the next largest party in the House—Harold Winch of the C.C.F.—to form a government.

If he called on the Socialists to form a government, he would be placed in the position of ignoring the advice of his premier, thereby creating a similar situation to the constitutional crisis in 1925 when Lord Byng, then governor-general, refused Prime Minister Mackenzie King an election and called on Conservative leader Arthur Meighen to form a government.

The Meighen government was soon defeated on the floor of the House of Commons, and in the election next year Mr. King and his Liberal party were swept into power.

One of the big reasons for the King victory, political students contended, was Mr. King's campaign declaration that the governor-general had made an unconstitutional decision and in effect the Crown was "dictating" to the country.

Willing to Risk Refusal

In the B.C. situation it is understood the Social Credit government is willing to risk the lieutenant-governor's refusal of an election.

If he did refuse Premier Bennett an election and called on the C.C.F. to form a government, the Socialists undoubtedly reason that the Social Credit government would be defeated in a short time and an election would follow anyway.

The Socialists could then try to make a big election issue out of Lieutenant-Governor Wallace's previous election refusal—as did Mr. King in 1926.

If the lieutenant-governor grants Premier Bennett an election, the Socialists feel they will be returned to office with a large majority.

Reason for their optimism is that they believe a November election would be a straight fight between the Socialists and the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives.

CHILDREN SEE BOY DROWN IN CURRENT

4 Others Saved At Bute Inlet

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28 (CP).—A boating accident at Bute Inlet, B.C., has taken the life of a nine-year-old West Vancouver boy, Keith Bannantyne.

The boy was swept down a muddy river to his death before the eyes of three other youngsters and a logging operator who survived the boat sinking.

The Bannantyne boy had been visiting the Eva Creek logging camp and was riding in a new boat with two other boys, a girl and an adult when the boat's engine stopped.

A 100-foot log punched a hole in the small cruiser as it drifted in the river current. Occupants put a line from the boat to the log, but the craft filled with water and sank. Keith was caught by the current and dragged downstream.

The other children, Gary Haight, 12, also of West Vancouver; Wendy Doddick, 12, of Rossland, and Gerry Dalton, nine, son of a camp employee, and their adult companion pulled themselves along the length of the log to reach a small island. They were picked up by a search boat three hours later.

Russia Sends Malik Home For Rest

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 28 (AP).—Russia has named Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Z. Zorin, who staged the Red coup in Czechoslovakia, as her chief delegate to the United Nations. Jacob A. Malik, the present delegate, is going home for "rest and reassignment."

U. N. officials announced Wednesday night that the Soviet government told them of the forthcoming change in a note addressed to the international organization's secretariat. Zorin is expected to arrive by Sept. 15, just a month before the general assembly opens its fall session.

Malik, who has been suffering from a heart ailment for some time, was originally scheduled to return to Moscow on leave early this summer. He has cancelled his passage twice, but the Soviet announcement of his replacement came as a surprise which observers could not immediately evaluate.

DEATH FOR TEEN-AGERS

Albania Introduces Toughest Penal Code

VIENNA, Aug. 28 (AP).—Western sources reported today that Red Albania has extended the death penalty to children over 12 years of age.

Only a few weeks ago, large-scale arrests of 'teen-agers were reported from Romania, but sources here said the new Albanian penal code is stronger than in any other Communist land, including the Soviet Union.

The new law, passed by the Albanian legislature, goes into effect Sept. 1. The sources here gave this description of it:

It provides death for all persons over 12 convicted of "conspiracy against the state, damage to state property or economic sabotage." The age limit for conviction on other criminal offences is 14 years.

Those who criticize "our friend, the Soviet Union" are subject to jail terms.

Western sources here said the lowering of the death-penalty age limit appeared to be part of an over-all campaign behind the iron curtain.

In July, persons in Bucharest taken in open Romanian army trucks to prison. It was speculated that the children either were being held as hostages for the "good behavior" of their parents, or had been caught distributing anti-Communist pamphlets.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT SEES POLIO EPIDEMIC WANING

The worst of Kimberley's polio epidemic is over, Dr. G. F. Amyot, deputy provincial health minister, said today.

He noted most of the cases from the hard-hit area now are mild, and there haven't been any deaths there for some time. He denied reports that there were two deaths in the Kimberley area on Wednesday.

"The situation is encouraging," the deputy said. There were seven new polio cases in scattered parts of the province in the last 24 hours, bringing the total to date to 181. The death toll stands at 17.

Schools will not open in Kimberley, health officials have reported, and elsewhere in B.C. school boards at Fernie and Cranbrook have decided to delay school reopening, set for next Tuesday. The Kamloops school board, warned of an "explosive" polio threat, was considering a similar delay.

Some Men Would Vote Say Builders

Victoria Contractors' Association suggestion that carpenters vote in a government-supervised ballot on their $1.90 hourly wage offer has been well received in some quarters.

"Our own men liked the tone of the offer," F. A. Cook, secretary of the association, said today.

The association membership consists of small firms engaged mainly in home construction.

"It gives a 15-cent increase," he said. "On the mainland carpenters were given only 10 cents, and it must be remembered that carpenters here lose very little time each year compared to other places."

"We made the offer because we believed someone had to take the initiative in getting work started again in Victoria," he said.

NO COMMENT

Both the carpenters' union and Victoria Builders' Exchange, representing larger construction firms, were silent on the eve of a meeting with the Labor Relations Board, scheduled for Friday.

Only other trouble spot is at Nelson, where about 100 carpenters went on strike Wednesday for a wage increase of 20 cents per hour to give them the $2.10 paid on the B.C. mainland coast.

Contractors termed the strike illegal because conciliation proceedings are still going on. Carpenters accused the operators of stalling.

Vancouver's 50 striking painters today withdrew pickets from city construction projects, as requested by the Labor Relations Board, as they prepared to consider a new settlement formula for their 75-day walkout.

30-CENT RAISE

The A.P.L. Building Trades Council Wednesday proposed a 30-cent raise for the painters, to make their basic wage $2.00 an hour, along with other concessions.

Hurricane Still Active In Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 28 (AP).—The tropical hurricane cradled in the Atlantic three days ago is expected to increase its wallowing power today.

No reports were received from the vicinity of the disturbance early today, the weather bureau reported in an advisory at 7 a.m. E.D.T. But its centre was estimated to be 360 miles north-northwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The hurricane continued its west-northwesterly course at a speed of 10 to 12 miles an hour. Winds of hurricane force—a minimum of 75 miles an hour—churned the Atlantic in the heavier squalls.

BRITISH JET FASTER THAN SUN

Record-Breaking Bomber Outsped Sol By 5 Minutes On Return Trip

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Britain's record-breaking Canberra jet bomber nearly beat the sun across the Atlantic Ocean, but the three-man crew was too busy flying the 10-mile-a-minute craft to keep an eye on its solar competitor.

The crew did have the startling experience of watching the sun rise over Ireland at the 6:34 a.m. take-off Tuesday, and of seeing it again just peeping over the horizon in Newfoundland at 6:38 a.m. local time.

The sun beat the twin-jet Canberra's Ireland - to - Newfoundland flight of four hours 33 minutes 17.05 seconds by about an hour.

But speeding back to Ireland again, the sleek black jet was helped by terrific tailwinds and actually beat the sun's time by about five minutes.

The entire round trip took just seven hours 58 minutes and 35.18 seconds flying time.

Wing Cmdr. Roland Beaumont, 32-year-old test pilot who captained the flight, told reporters, "Everything went off so amazingly to timetable that I don't believe it."

He said the weather forecast just before the take-off was bad. "We were told we must expect to meet headwinds in the form of a jet stream at 40,000 feet blowing at over 100 miles an hour right on our nose for half the 2,000-mile trip," he said.

"We levelled off at 40,000 feet. We never saw the Atlantic either way but had sunshine and a clear sky above the clouds as we scudded along like riding on a magic carpet, averaging 450 miles an hour over the water despite those tremendous headwinds."

"Few aircraft, and those only jets, have as yet flown at 40,000 feet on long journeys."

"We tried to contact the two weather ships on our journey. But while there was nothing wrong with our radio, one of the ships evidently was having reception trouble because we heard several other airmen trying to contact it without success."

"But thanks to the skill of Sqdn. Ldr. D. A. Watson, our navigator, the bomber kept dead on course and we made landfall at (Gander) Newfoundland exactly when and where expected."

Beaumont said the navigator had estimated four hours 35 minutes for the journey.

Peter Hillwood, the co-pilot, took over for the homeward run.

"We were now racing against the sun, but with this jet stream on our tail we were propelled along at a fine 600 miles per hour and all felt we were sitting pretty on top of the clouds."

"We spoke to the Canadian pilot of a Trans-Canada airliner whom we passed but did not see. When I told him we were flying across the Atlantic in both directions, he replied on the radio, 'What a hell of a way to spend the day.'"

"The weather thickened as we neared the Irish coast. We began our let-down from 40,000 feet while still 200 miles away, we plunged through the clouds to 10,000 feet and shot across the airfield just after 4:35 p.m."

"We were told by radio we were over it and had shot past it and we did a quick turn to come back and cross the finishing line just over 10 hours after we had left it in the morning."

"We ate nothing during the journey in the air, nor did we smoke because all three of us were wearing oxygen masks. All we wanted was a cup of tea."

AMERICAN LINE TO BUY COMETS

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker said Wednesday Eastern Air Lines will buy 35 to 50 Comet Jet airliners if the planes can be delivered within three years.

He said the weather forecast just before the take-off was bad. "We were told we must expect to meet headwinds in the form of a jet stream at 40,000 feet blowing at over 100 miles an hour right on our nose for half the 2,000-mile trip," he said.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

MONDAY HOLIDAYS

THE APPROACH of Labor Day lends a timely significance to the tentative efforts being made in some directions to bring about measures to ensure the Monday observance of all public holidays. At present Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day are now observed on a Monday, and suggestions have been promulgated in certain commercial circles to bring Victoria Day (May 24) and Canada Day (July 1) into line.

As is generally known, the decision to change Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day to Monday observance instead of being "movable feasts," so to speak, was made to permit the long week-end, thus enabling those who so desired to get away into the country.

DIFFERENT MATTERS

SUCH a step undoubtedly had merit, and has given many a worker a chance to enjoy a respite from his or her daily task and common round. It has also stimulated travel and accelerated the tourist business in Victoria and other popular resorts. All of which, of course, is beneficial to the local and national economy.

But when it comes to putting Victoria Day and Canada Day into the same category I, for one, think such a move would be a definitely regrettable and retrograde step.

BRING TOURISTS?

PROponents of the idea take the stand that not only would such a change bring a longer week-end for the benefit of workers but would also stimulate the tourist trade. As to the first, there may be something in it, although, with the working week gradually shrinking to such an extent that the five-day week is becoming more and more common and the daylight-saving program providing many more opportunities for recreation and entertainment, an elongated week-end isn't the necessity it used to be. As to its stimulation to the tourist trade, I am inclined to think that it would not begin to compensate for what I consider the debit side of the picture.

SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE

BOTH May 24 and July 1 have a historic significance which cannot be overlooked. In the 40 years that I have been here, Victoria Day has really counted for something as a Victoria institution. And I, for one, think we lost a colorful and peculiarly community-conscious celebration when the ubiquitous automobile led to such a general evacuation that the old-time parade, with its costumed children and ingenious floats, went into the discard.

Today, were it not for the Empire Day celebrations on May 23, so sedulously kept alive by the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, with their schoolchildren's service around the statue of the Great Queen who gave her name to this city, the significance of May 24 might easily be forgotten.

DOMINION DAY

IF THAT is true of May 24, how much more true is it of July 1? Goodness knows, the spate of United States ideas which flood in over the radio and movies—and, let me hasten to add, that is not intended to be in any way derogatory of Americans—is tending more and more to make some of our youngsters forget what Canada and Canadianism means and to think of us as near-Americans.

It is about time we woke to the fact that what we need most in Canada is to build up a Canadian legend, to cultivate a pride in its history, its achievements, its culture, to preserve its traditions and institutions.

We shall not do that by subordinating our national pride and our national heritage to crass commercialism, as such a move to celebrate Victoria Day and Canada Day on the nearest Mondays would suggest.

CHRISTMAS, TOO?

NOR DO I think that any tourist of any account would want us to do so. Americans come here because we offer something different from what they have in their own country—different in the way of traditions, habits and history. They wouldn't think any more of us for moving our historic national observances to Monday. In fact, knowing the tenacity with which they cling to their July 4th traditions, I am inclined to believe they would think less of us.

So, for the sake of our Canadian pride in our Canadian heritage, I hope that Victoria Day will never be moved from May 24, nor Canada Day from July 1. If, under pressure from commercial interests they should be changed, I shudder at what might eventually may happen to Christmas Day and Easter.

TV NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN

C.B.C. Will Carry Some U.S. Programs, More Later

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (CP).—C.B.C. television stations will carry some United States network programs, but negotiations for programs of two American networks have "broken down."

A. D. Dunton, C.B.C. chairman, said today that discussions have broken down with two networks "regarding the proportion of money paid by the sponsor which would go to the United States networks and the C.B.C."

He declined to name the networks.

Negotiations with the two networks may be resumed some time in the future.

Because of the breakdown in negotiations, Canadians will not see programs which some sponsors wished to have shown in this country.

The C.B.C. is completing arrangements with two U.S. networks for some of their programs.

The programs mainly will be carried by the C.B.C.'s new television station in Toronto, to be opened officially Sept. 8.

There is a network link between Toronto and Buffalo, N.Y. A network link between Toronto and Montreal, where a station will be opened Sept. 6, will not be completed until early next year.

Network programs of film could be shown simultaneously in Montreal and Toronto.

ZORIN SEASONED DIPLOMAT

New Soviet Delegate Mastered Czech Coup

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 28 (UP).—Jacob A. Malik, whose familiar "V" sign stands for "veto" in the United Nations where he is Russia's chief delegate, today joined the ranks of recalled Red diplomats.

The Kremlin announced in a note received here late Wednesday that Valerian A. Zorin, architect of the 1948 Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, would take over Malik's U.N. post next month.

The note said Malik, whose veto blocked the west in the U.N. Security Council on almost every major issue except the Korean War, would return to Moscow for a new assignment.

Moscow's beckoning of Malik was the latest in the sweeping series of Kremlin-directed diplomatic changes that began early this summer with a surprise triple transfer that sent Ambassador Aleksander S. Panyushkin from Washington to Peking, Andrei A. Gromyko from the Kremlin's foreign office to London and Georgi Zarubin from London to Washington.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie's office today awaited the arrival of Zorin's credentials, but written notification of the change already had been sent by the Soviet delegation, which refused inquiries about the switch.

It was not immediately apparent whether Malik's replacement would change Soviet policy at the U.N., nor was it known whether it was connected with current Moscow talks with top Chinese Communist officials, the Panmunjom Korean peace conference or the forthcoming all-union congress of the Communist party in Moscow on Oct. 5.

Czechs behind the Iron Curtain. No stranger to the U.N., he served as a member of the Soviet delegation to the General Assembly in 1947. He was expected to take over from Malik about September 15.

The 46-year-old Malik's last effort at the U.N. was an undistinguished attempt to pin German warfare charges on the United Nations. He was rebuffed twice—the last time Wednesday in attempts to force a full debate on bacterial weapons in the disarmament commission, and the security council threw out his demand that it appeal to all countries to ratify the 1925 Geneva protocol outlawing poison.

Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, will be the third with that rank to represent Russia at the U.N. The first was Gromyko—the original No-man who made the veto famous by using it two dozen times. He was succeeded by Malik, who said "nyet" seventeen times in his tenure of something more than three years to block the west.

Zorin, at 50, is a seasoned Soviet diplomat. At 20, he held a directive post in the young Communist league of Russia. In 1941, he entered the Russian foreign office, and in 1945, he became ambassador to Czechoslovakia. Although he had left that post, he suddenly reappeared in Czechoslovakia when the Communists overthrew the Benes-Masaryk regime in 1948, and was generally credited with engineering the coup that put the

Two Vancouver Men Face Drug Charges

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28 (BUP).—Police in Vancouver say they will charge two more men as drug suspects today after picking up the men in an East Hastings hotel Wednesday night.

The men are aged 22 and 26. One was believed to have been one of the first East Indians ever arrested here on a drug charge. The arrests followed 11 others on drug counts earlier in the week.

IRAQ KING IN CALIFORNIA, FACES SUIT

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 28 (AP).—The youthful King of Iraq arrived in Southern California on a royal tour Wednesday night and was sued for $1,000,000 by a Los Angeles resident.

The damage suit was filed Wednesday by Irwin Gielgud against 17-year-old King Faisal II.

Gielgud alleged that the King falsely caused his arrest by port authorities in Basra, Iraq, Nov. 30, 1951. The Los Angeles man said he was taken from an airplane on which he was traveling from Karachi, India, to Istanbul, Turkey, and held for three hours.

U.K. Expected to Reply to Iran's Compensation Offer On Oil Deal

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 28 (AP).—A government spokesman said today Britain has agreed to reply by Sept. 3 to the Iranian offer to discuss compensation claims arising out of nationalization of the $1,500,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The spokesman said this promise was made Wednesday during a three-hour conference of United States Ambassador Loy Henderson and British Charge D'Affairs George Middleton with Premier Mohammed Mosaddegh.

The spokesman would make no other comment on the conference. Informed sources in London said Henderson and Middleton sought to break the British-Iranian deadlock with proposals involving U.S. economic aid to Iran, a lifting of the British blockade on Iranian oil sales abroad and negotiations on the compensation claims. Iran wants prompt payment of $140,000,000 in disputed oil royalties as a condition to opening any talks.

The spokesman told reporters today that W. Alton Jones, American oil man now inspecting the oil installations at Abadan, had requested permission to visit Iran. This was in contradiction with a statement by Abbas Parkhideh, president of the sales commission.

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

COMPLAINT — In Woodford, Essex, Eng., the Vicar of Woodford, Rev. D. C. Mumby, suggests in his church magazine that parish girls guard against letting girls from other districts romp away with the men. "Although we have lots of attractive girls we have only one or two weddings each quarter," he complained.

PROMISE — In Kent, Eng., when Mrs. Phyllis Dawson woke up recently there was no sign of her children, Madeleine, 7, and Barry, 4. Then she remembered Madeleine had promised her brother a day at the beach. They were found on the beach at Rye, 35 miles away.

FATE — In Oudtshoorn, South Africa, S. J. M. Gerike heard that an old friend, C. Claassen, whom he had not seen since 1905, was staying at Calitzdorp, only a short distance away. He drove over at once to visit Mr. Claassen, only to hear that he had died the previous day and was already buried.

PATIENT — In Vancouver, Hugh Roy Cullen, the 71-year-old Texas oil magnate known as the "millionaire's millionaire," left the General Hospital today after making what his doctors called "a remarkable recovery" from an internal ailment.

Cullen was stricken 23 days ago while on a vacation at the famed B.C. resort of Harrison Hot Springs.

The doctors would not give the nature of the ailment, but it was believed to be a kidney disorder. Cullen underwent surgery two weeks ago and the doctors said today "he was a remarkable patient... all the spirit in the world."

They added, "He's fine," and disclosed Cullen soon would return to his home in Houston, Texas.

REMEDY — In Montreal Professor Helmut Hatzfeld of the Catholic University of America, Washington, said today modern society expects the university to remedy ills through sociology, psychology and technical advances.

In an address prepared for delivery to the 22nd World Congress of Pax Romana, he said society's ills could be remedied by the sociologist and psychologist only if their teachings had a firm foundation in philosophy and theology.

Theme of Pax Romana, in international federation of Catholic student and intellectual associations, is the mission of universities.

He said the modern idea of the university differs from that held from 1300 to 1900, when speculation and interpretation through history predominated. Modern society looked to the university for technical inventions and tools of war and peace from its facilities of applied sciences.

R.C.M.P. Silent On Spy Story

Montreal Paper Claims Moscow-Trained D.P.'s Enter Canada as Citizens, Report on Defense

MONTREAL, Aug. 28 (BUP)—The R.C.M.P. remained silent today on a newspaper's report that Moscow-trained spies, admitted to Canada as refugees from Iron Curtain countries, were at work in Montreal transmitting "secret data" on defense industry to Russian agents.

'News to Me' Says Garson Of Spy Report

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (BUP)—Justice Minister Stuart Garson said today he had received no reports of an alleged spy ring operating in Montreal by refugee immigrants.

The report, he said, was "news to me."

"But if I did know I would not say," he added. "You can't run an anti-subversive system if you can't keep quiet about it."

Garson was commenting on Montreal newspaper reports that displaced persons who immigrated to Canada recently were supplying defense plant data to Communist agents.

Supt. G. B. McClelland of the R.C.M.P. special branch said his Montreal office had no information on the reported spy ring. But he added that there would be "no comment from any member of the force" on the newspaper account.

Immigration officials in Ottawa also disclaimed knowledge of the reported spy ring.

Interior B.C. Bakeries Hit By Walkout

PENTICTON, B.C., Aug. 28 (BUP)—The two largest bakeries in the Okanagan cities of Kelowna and Penticton are shut down tight today as a result of a new strike.

Workers at the McGavin Ltd. plant at Kelowna and the Canadian Bakeries Ltd. plant at Penticton went on strike today to back demands for wage boosts averaging $22 a week.

The workers, members of the International Union of Bakery and Confectionery Employees, turned down an offer of a $5.50 increase.

Kelowna and Penticton district housewives will have to search out the smaller bakeries for their supplies until the tie-up ends.

The union said the wage boosts sought would bring the pay of interior workers up to the level received by coast employees. The union warned any attempt to bring bakery supplies into the Okanagan from the coast would result in sympathy strikes on the coast.

CANADA'S KOREAN FORCE PRAISED BY U.K. WRITER

LONDON, Aug. 28 (CP)—On an editorial page feature on "The Commonwealth Division" today, The Times refers to the composition of infantry brigades in Korea and says: "These Canadians have seen plenty of action and their performance has been unsurpassed."

The Times special correspondent mentions the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Royal 22nd Regiment, and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. He also talks of gunners of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and tankmen of Lord Strathcona's Horse.

Speaking of the attitude of the men in the line, The Times reporter says: "Although they tend to think that they deserve more place in the minds of their countrymen—as indeed they do—this 'forgotten army' continues to strengthen Commonwealth links and traditions at the same time as it serves the cause of nations."

Fresh Korea P.O.W. Outbreaks Indicated in Army Statement

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 28 (AP)—The United States Eighth Army indicated today there have been fresh Communist prisoner-of-war incidents or demonstrations in United Nations P.O.W. camps since Sunday. It said it would have an announcement Friday.

The army earlier this week disclosed details on the two P.O.W. incidents in July and 10 between Aug. 11 and 24. It said four prisoners were killed and 64 injured in these.

Asked today if there had been further incidents, a spokesman for the U.N. prisoner-of-war command said: "We will have another announcement Friday. You were covered through Aug. 24, and tomorrow's announcement will bring you up to date."

Maj. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, chief of the command, said in a statement at Pusan that "the American people must expect incidents."

"Guarding enemy prisoners is a dangerous business," he added. "We have tried to be firm and fair and operate our camps strictly in accordance with the humanitarian principles of the Geneva Convention."

"Since last June there has been no strong attempts by the prisoners to mutiny or seize control in the compounds. Our personnel enter them habitually."

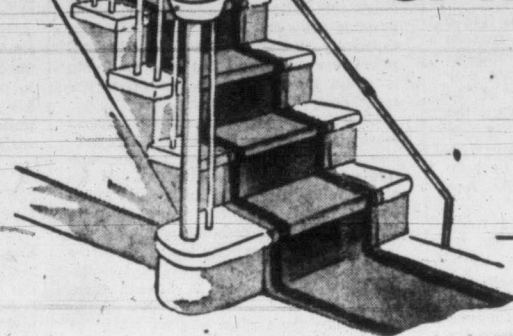

Boatner quelled large-scale prisoner uprisings in the Koje Island prison camp off Pusan in June.

The truce talks are in their fifth week-long recess, until Sept. 4.

Cheap Japanese Goods

THE SPECTER OF CHEAP JAPANESE goods, sure to ruin Canadian industries, already is haunting the protectionists of central Canada. In a series of recent public statements they have warned the Canadian government not to allow any more Japanese imports into this country.

Two vital questions are thus raised, one political, the other economic. Before long Canada will have to answer them in terms of actual policy.

Politically and militarily the position of Japan, as an outpost of western power at the edge of Communist Asia, is vital to the free world. Strategically these crowded islands are one of the most important areas in the world.

The west signed a generous peace treaty with Japan not only for reasons of sound principle but on the realistic calculation that if Japan were not welcomed into the western family of nations it would turn perforce toward the open arms of Russia. As part of this bargain Japan agreed to avoid trade with its natural markets in China, to base its economy on trade with the free nations.

If the free nations now refuse to trade with Japan the Japanese will not lie down peacefully and starve to death. This vigorous and ingenious people, the ablest manufacturers and traders in all Asia, will burst out of any economic prison which the free world attempts to erect, if the free world is foolish enough to try.

Japan can finally join the communist world beyond our power to prevent it and will certainly be forced in that direction if it is not given the chance of a decent life elsewhere. Hence for purely political and military considerations the west is bound to give Japan a chance to sell its goods, on a fair basis, where they are wanted and will be bought.

Economically trade increases the total supply of goods in the world by making possible the exploitation of resources which otherwise would lie idle and unused. No nation should understand that better than Canada, which mainly lives on exports and imports. In the specific case of Japan Canada already is benefiting from Japanese recovery since the war. Last year we sold $75 millions worth of goods to Japan, or some $30 millions more than in the previous year. Japan was our fourth largest foreign customer and can become a great customer for our foodstuffs, timber and minerals at a time when we may need new customers.

From Japan last year we bought goods worth only $12.5 millions. The trade was unbalanced in our favor by about 600 per cent. This cannot go on long. At the moment Japan buys here because it has to but when it can find other sources of supply it will buy where it can. It will not long buy six times as much from Canada as it sells here simply because it will lack the necessary Canadian dollars. If we are to retain our present Japanese market and expand it we will have to let the Japanese sell here approximately, though of course not exactly, as much as it buys here.

The protectionist industries of central Canada, mainly the textile industries, say that cheap Japanese goods will impoverish Canada. This is an economic theory as false as it is ancient. The more goods this nation can secure at the lowest possible price the richer it will be. And especially at the present time, when all prices are high and the cost of living is again increasing, cheaper goods are more desirable than ever.

It is true that competitive imports from Japan, from Britain or anywhere else may adversely affect certain non-competitive Canadian industries. If we are to follow the principle that no Canadian industry must ever be allowed to feel the winds of competition, if we are to assume that our price and wage structure in every industry is sacred, permanent and must never be altered then, of course, we destroy the basis of the free enterprise system and we might as well hand the economy over to the socialists, who will carry protectionism, self-containment and boot-strap economics to their logical conclusion.

But the cry of ruin from the textile and other highly-protected industries will not appeal much these days to the Canadian housewife. She wants cheaper goods if she can get them. If she thinks the matter through she will also see that if we lose a dollar's worth of business through Japanese imports we shall earn at least a dollar through our exports to Japan. In the last year, indeed, we earned six dollars for one. If larger Japanese imports in the future should reduce the jobs open in some central Canadian industries they will assure more jobs in our great western exporting industries.

These obvious facts will soon be confronted by the Canadian government when it opens tariff negotiations with Japan and decides whether the present prohibitive tariffs against many Japanese goods are to be maintained or not. If the western nations like Canada, the rich markets of the world, are to be closed to Japan we need not be surprised if it ultimately throws in its lot with communism, for the Japanese are hungry and intend to eat.

Health Insurance Next?

MANY CANADIANS WILL SYMPATHIZE with the demand of the Trades and Labor Congress for a system of universal health insurance in Canada. But a majority of the people, we believe, will see, after a moment's thought, that this is not the time for such a huge experiment in social security.

Hospital insurance in British Columbia is costing the average family about $40 a year. Health insurance, which covers medical as well as hospital service, will cost much more. It is generally reckoned in Ottawa, after years of study, that a hospital insurance scheme would cost something like half a billion dollars a year. That is roughly half the equivalent of the present income tax.

Are the Canadian people ready to raise income taxes by some fifty per cent to pay for hospital insurance—this on top of a sharp social security tax imposed a few months ago to pay for universal old age pensions? We doubt it. The government also doubts it and has postponed its health insurance scheme until the country can better afford it.

The people of Canada are paying now all the taxes they desire and more. Health insurance contributions, however they are disguised and however distributed, must be taken and nothing else. And even if they are not applied directly to income, if they are hidden by invisible levies on goods, the price will be paid by the ordinary Canadian family, not by a few rich people.

The time when we can afford this extra cost will come when we can safely reduce our existing taxes after the burden of rearmament has passed its peak; or when the total production of the country, its only real wealth, has substantially increased. At the moment, when we are carrying the present heavy tax load, and especially when we face another round of inflation which more government spending will certainly stimulate, we had better digest the gigantic social security costs already under way before we embark on new ones.

Moreover, we have learned through bitter experience in British Columbia that hospital insurance, merely one phase of health insurance, is likely to cost far more in practice than the experts expect in theory; is likely to involve administrative problems which no expert foresaw. Much larger costs and much more difficult problems undoubtedly will arise in a national scheme of complete health insurance. Undoubtedly those costs can be paid and those problems solved later on when the major burden of defence has eased, when the nation has increased its rate of total production and when inflation has been finally subdued. This is not the time to bite off more than we can chew.

An Emergency To Be Met

WITH A BUMPER WHEAT CROP for the second successive year, sufficient to fill country elevators three times over, Canada must indeed appear to be the promised land to many nations less favorably placed.

Pakistan, for instance, with a crop failure in prospect, may run into serious trouble if outside assistance is not forthcoming. The situation there has led the Pakistan government to appeal to Canada for wheat. It has not, however, asked for a gift.

What is required is a $25 million loan, repayable in five or ten years, with which the needy country would buy grain. That would appear a reasonable request, and must be so viewed by most Canadians. Unfortunately there is no legislative machinery by which such a loan could be granted except by act of Parliament, and that body does not meet again until late November.

In the meantime it may be possible to arrange a somewhat similar deal

High Cost of Saving

THE BOOMERANG NATURE OF ECONOMICS—and economies—can be seen in prospects that the water board may be forced to raise the price of water to the city and the city in turn to the consumers.

In an effort to lower costs the city ceased boulevard watering and sewer flushing. This resulted in a cut in consumption of 390,000 gallons, and a reduced city expenditures by some $31,000. But it also reduced water board revenues by a similar amount.

through the agency of the Colombo Plan—the agreement by which the Commonwealth extends assistance to Far East countries. But it is apparent that some adequate response must be made to the Pakistan request.

To advertise a surfeit of food while a fellow member of the Commonwealth starves would not only be immoral but stupid. Failure to heed this distress cry, even if it were in the form of charity rather than the straight business proposition that has been presented, would lay us, and all the democracies, open to Communist criticism.

What friends are these, Pakistan would be asked by the Reds; give us a chance to show you what we can do.

We shall never convince the peoples of Asia we want them for friends if we cannot take the most fundamental step of helping them to stay alive. Wheat for Pakistan is a matter of immediate political as well as a moral obligation. We should act quickly if we are not to lose out in both categories.

It now appears that to make up the deficiency the board may have to raise the price of water from its present eight cents. When the city in turn passes this on to the water consumers or the taxpayers they will merely be paying more for the same amount of water. All that will have happened in effect will be that they paid for watering the boulevards and flushing the sewers but didn't get what they paid for. They will have difficulty in seeing how they have economized.

LOOSE ENDS

Pansco Hazel

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A HOLSTEIN milk cow by the name of Pansco Hazel of Whittier, Calif., recently condescended to give a full-dress press conference to celebrate her achievement in producing 267,304 pounds of milk. This accomplishment, let it be said at once, is much larger both in volume and importance than the accomplishments of most people who give press conferences. They usually produce only words. Pansco Hazel produced milk. They, articulate but she lactates.

Everybody gives press conferences nowadays from an eminent statesman to a former king of Egypt who has nothing more to exhibit than his corpulence. This, I suppose, is mainly the fault of the press, but I may tell you in confidence that the press doesn't like it, for the reporters know that a press conference is mainly designed to suppress information while seeming to give it.

FOR THIS purpose the seasoned public figure prepares himself carefully by assuming an air of complete candor when, in fact, he intends to suppress his real thoughts under a blanket of words.

The unequalled master of the press conference was Franklin Roosevelt, who used it like a delicate musical instrument to play themes of infinite variety. Since his time every politician has tried to imitate the touch of the master, usually without success.

A MORE pedestrian Canadian statesman like the late Mackenzie King called a press conference at infrequent intervals when he thought he had some information to give the public, but the Roosevelt method, now generally followed, was just the opposite. The president apparently opened his whole mind twice a week to public examination without preparation or forethought when actually every casual sentence, tossed off in colloquial and often slangy phrases, was cunningly contrived to create a well-considered effect.

One recalls the loss of that handsome head, the tilt of the cigarette holder, the flashing smile, the twitch of the shoulders, the air of a man who had nothing to hide and yet could fend off every question while appearing to answer it completely. Roosevelt loved the game of wits and invariably won it, but this required a talent, which few statesmen possess.

GOVERNOR STEVENSON, who hopes to take Roosevelt's place, remarked the other day that he wished he had the right kind of face for a press conference. The right kind of face no doubt is a valuable piece of equipment. It need not be handsome like Roosevelt's, it may be just the opposite, provided it is unusual, is easily caught by the camera and sticks in the public memory.

A commonplace visage, as Mr. Stevenson confesses, is a liability to the statesman, but even a good and striking face, even the face of Pansco Hazel (surely more handsome than any human face and more intelligent in looks than most) is useless without long training in its use.

ANY MAN of normal intelligence soon learns how to say nothing while apparently saying everything, to send the reporters away crammed with information, only to ask themselves, when they read their notes, what the great man really meant, if anything. This is normal, easy elementary and can be mastered in an apprenticeship of a few years. But the right look is not so quickly perfected and it is vital.

In this age of widely-advertised slogans and brand names it is futile for the statesman to wear his normal face. He must establish his own unique trade mark. He must wear the expression which the public expects of him or it will feel cheated, as if a pound of merchandise were falsely labeled. In this civilization the label is everything and the contents, especially the contents of a press conference, of little importance.

THE LABELS, of course, will vary between one entrepreneur and another. Roosevelt's favorite label was an air of carefree gallantry, the look of the old and tired actor, well-worn like a battered theatrical trunk. King, on the other hand, used the entirely false label of a settled solemnity, a total lack of humor, which he used to disguise an impish and wagsish disposition so successfully that the public never knew the real man and voted for a caricature which the real man had erected for self-protection.

Mr. Lester Pearson's label is a kind of gay boyishness, a caricature of another sort, while his colleague, Mr. Abbott, with homespun and utterly confident look, has succeeded in making the dull and most common financial figures appear to be a jolly game which the taxpayer always wins even if he goes home with empty pockets.

MR. HOWE, however, has the best label of all. His grizzled, mastiff face, the tired eyes which conceal an explosive energy, the exterior of graven granite and veined sea rock, the monosyllabic grunts, have fascinated every interviewer and sent all the American reporters back to New York with the news that they have at last discovered the true inward nature of Canada.

The Prime Minister, on the other hand, succeeds, you might almost say, in spite of himself by saying exactly what he thinks and appearing what he is—a dangerous technique which lesser men had better not risk.

The beginner will be wise to imitate Miss Pansco Hazel, who says nothing but quietly produces results.

Peron's Success

Argentina is buying 200,000 tons of wheat from the United States, thus becoming a wheat importer for the first time in its history. This is in sharp contrast to the year 1929-30, when large-scale Argentine exports helped force down the world price of this cereal and had much to do with the troubles which then overtook the prairie wheat pools.

FAIR EXCHANGE

It makes me sick to hear just what the American tourists have to say about the exchange of the dollar being temporarily on the other foot, as it is at present.

Let the Canadian tourist get away from the coast of the U.S.A. and see just what the American storekeeper has to say about even accepting Canadian money. I was asked in Olympia when I tendered a $20 Canadian bill for 10 gallons of gasoline, if I didn't have any "white man's money" as they didn't take that stuff at all.

Then again, find any storekeeper back from the coast who would give you more than 80 cents for a Canadian dollar when bank exchange was 95 cents for the Canadian dollar.

I have been insulted many times for even offering Canadian money in the States.

VACANT LOTS

After frequent visits to your beautiful city and hoping soon to become a citizen, I have often wondered at the continuation of two particular aspects which appear such an anomaly to me.

The first one: the beauty of the attractive gardens, hanging baskets of flowers, Butchart's Gardens, are all intended to impress the visitors, yet throughout the city vacant lots, many on corners, at this particular time, show a prolific growth of sow thistles and other weeds, the seeds of which can blow for 50 miles if the wind is in the right direction.

With streets in residential areas well treed and boulevarded, and care to sprinkle and trim when needed, what an example and encouragement there is for adjoining property owners, to say nothing about the increased cost of cultivation at high labor costs for those engaged in truck gardening.

Furthermore, another thought enters into the picture. These lots, most of which are city owned, surely, if disposed of at present attractive values, would bring many shekels into the city treasury.

These lots with city water and sewage conveniences passing the property, surely would have city outlay now steel and labor costs are so high in contrast to the expense of supplying such conveniences to outlying areas.

All of which is respectfully submitted free of charge.

LIME BAY

Re the Lime Bay pensioners. There are many men of this type, usually out-of-door men, quite capable of light work, who would be very unhappy without their own cottage, however small and in natural surroundings. An institution takes away their little money and the sense of personal freedom, which means so much to elderly people.

Would it not be possible to form a permanent community for men of this type, where they could pool their pensions and live their own lives, free from interference?

One of the government-owned islands on this coast would be ideal for the purpose. Fuel and building material are plentiful. Falling something like this, we think these men should remain where they are during their lifetime, which will be short. Recent attempts to regiment old pensioners in the city of Victoria seem very bureaucratic and inhumane.

Mistaken Education

Edmonton Journal

EDUCATION seems to have strayed into the occasional odd byway during the school year 1931-32, to judge from some anecdotes collected from points around the globe.

Thus, at the convocation of St. Louis University in Missouri, 110 law students were to be awarded Bachelor of Laws degrees. Through some unexplained error, they were all given doctorates of law instead—nearly short-circuiting several years of post-graduate study.

This was an accident, but something of the same sort apparently happened through deliberate intention at an agricultural school in Russia. The Moscow newspaper Izvestia complained that farm boys attending the school were given degrees without properly completing the course, in exchange for presents of lamb to the professors. This is the most direct method on record for translating lambs into sheepskins.

In Turkey this summer, a unique experiment in vocational education came to a sad end. It was a school for beggars in Istanbul where children were taught how to pretend to be crippled or blind. "Homework" consisted of stumbling realistically to the main squares and asking for alms. Turkish police finally swooped down on the school and declared a permanent vacation.

These incidents were the gaudy exceptions, however, and the vast majority of schools throughout the world plugged faithfully away at their a-b-c's.

From Our Files

Aug. 28, 1892—M. Gutman yesterday shipped to New York two sea otter skins, brought in by Indians. They were valued at $317.

Aug. 28, 1912—Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, is in the city today, accompanied by Col. Davidson, head of the company's land department. It is hoped the dispute as to the future use of the Songhees Reserve will be settled.

Aug. 28, 1932—With 500 passengers aboard, and 500 more to be picked up at Honolulu, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada sailed for Far East.

View From The South Side

Canadians will be a little bewildered by some of the comments in the following editorial. Taken from a recent issue of the Los Angeles Daily News, but will welcome the ever-all friendly spirit which prompted it. The editorial was headed: "U.S. Should Be Kind to Northern Neighbor."

AMERICANS should begin to take more notice of Canada, their neighbor to the north. Some Americans are already doing this and are learning some valuable lessons.

American dollars, once sought so eagerly in Canada and still sought, for that matter—now are worth only 96 1/2 cents in that country. A few firms take American money at par but it is rather generally understood that any nominal loss is more than made up in profit where this is done.

The higher rate of the Canadian dollar, now worth only 95 cents in American money, is due to the increased demand of American dollars for Canadian goods and services, and to American inflation. This is expected to continue for some time and the exchange rate may increase to 5 per cent in the near future.

All this isn't to the liking of the average Canadian. In fact business and professional men and their employees everywhere are apologetic about it. It is something that did not come about through connivance but as a result of natural economic laws which we would do well to study.

GOING AHEAD

Canada announces she is going forward alone with the development of the St. Lawrence seaway. First she said she would go ahead without the United States in as much as Congress made it clear recently that the United States would not participate despite the urging by President Truman that we do so. This has been the congressional attitude for 40 years or more and the refusal is blamed on railroads and power companies who fear possible competition.

Now Canada says she will refuse American aid if it is offered and that means that one of these days we shall be paying Canada for the use of that seaway.

Canadian population is beginning to move westward. Winnipeg now has a large French Canadian colony. There is some friction between the English-speaking Canadians and the French-speaking Canadians. We have no sectional problem in America exactly comparable to it.

WHAT! NO LIBERALS?

We have no doubt that the two linguistic groups in Canada will work out their conflicts without serious trouble as both of them have a vast fund of common sense. There is another division, however, that may not work out so well or so readily. That is the political division between Conservatives and Canadian Commonwealth Federationists (sic).

As reflected in Parliament there seems little likelihood of the political gap between left and right being spanned soon. We have an advantage in this regard for our two major political parties seem to be solving that difference with good will.

Canadians are, generally speaking, friendly to Americans. Every courtesy is extended to the American traveler, but if the subject of the relationship between the two countries comes up in conversation the Canadians will tactfully inform Americans that they are welcome but not indispensable.

There are many Canadians who believe that some new interest in Canada is being shown by America because the people of this country appreciate the value of Canada as an ally in a possible world war some battles in which might be fought across the North Pole.

There is much to that belief. Without invalidating our appreciation of the need for Canadian aid in any way on defense grounds, the United States could well afford to find other reasons for making friends. Canada is willing to be a real neighbor if we are. We should give the matter serious and immediate thought.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"EVERYBODY," said the Elevator Man, "has heard that one about the borrower. You've got a nerve, using my toothbrush," yelled a fella in the hotel washroom. "Gee, I'm sorry," says the other guy. "I thought it belonged to the hotel." Not many of us are so casual about using second-hand things. We don't mind second-hand cars, or furniture, or houses.

But when it comes to clothes and such we're apt to get a little fussy. And down the list at toothbrushes, handkerchiefs and other personal items we absolutely draw the line. Like the explorer, who gets a kick out of being the first one to set foot on some mountain peak, we like to know we aren't following in anybody else's footsteps when we put on our shoes. We'd rather brush elbows with our neighbors than teeth. There's a bit of the pioneer in all of us. Lower main!

"That," said the Elevator Man, "is what makes it so surprising that we're prone to take our ideas second-hand. Few of us come out with a new idea of our own. We climb few unexplored peaks in the mountains of thought. But worse still, we don't even bother to learn other people's ideas at first hand. Somebody writes a book, for instance. He has something to tell us in it, maybe something we want to know. But do we read the book? Not these days. We read a review of it, which is merely some other fella's opinion of it. Or we read a condensation of it, which is merely some other fella's idea of what was interesting in it. Or we wait for the movie version, which is the worst of all since it represents merely someone's idea of what could have been done with a book with that title if a Hollywood man had written it and then changed the title. We don't eat the cake or even the shadow of the cake, but merely a picture somebody drew of the shadow. Going down!

"Not many of us," said the Elevator Man, "give credit for the ideas we borrow. We're not as truthful as that schoolboy who was asked, 'What are all these quotation marks on your examination paper?' And he answered, 'Courtesy to the boy on my right, sir.'"

Quebec Tot Survives 72 Hours in Bush

ROUYN, Que., Aug. 28 (CP).—Wilfred Turcotte, 2½, was found alive today after being lost three days and three nights in the bush.

The child, apparently little the worse for his experience, kept up his strength by eating blueberries.

Searchers said high temperatures the last three nights helped the boy survive.

The boy, found by three searchers about 8.30 a.m., wandered into thick bush at Beaudry, 15 miles south of here, Monday. His mother had placed him on a rock while she picked blueberries in a wild wasteland of rock and muskeg.

About 250 men, aided by an airplane, searched for him. They feared he had been carried off by one of the bears that invade the blueberry patches at this time of year.

Oil Companies Not Disputing Charges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Senate small business committee said today none of seven big oil firms accused of monopoly practices has accepted an offer to appear before the committee and dispute the charge.

The monopoly accusations, detailed in a long-suppressed report written by the Federal Trade Commission, were made public Monday.

Blake O'Connor, director of the committee's professional staff, said the group will decide now whether to order public hearings of its own on the matter, write a report based on the F.T.C. findings or simply let the report stand.

Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, the committee chairman and Democratic nominee for vice-president, announced in making the report public that he was reserving Wednesday and today for public hearings if any of the seven companies wanted to reply.

"We have had no request for a hearing from any of the seven," O'Connor told a reporter.

The report named the seven companies as Standard Oil of

New Jersey, Standard of California, The Texas Co., Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., and Gulf Oil Corp., all incorporated in the United States; the Anglo-Iranian Company, largely owned by the British government, and Royal Dutch Shell, owned mainly by Dutch and British interests. In press statements at the time, the companies generally denied any wrongdoing.

Shot From Ambush

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28 (AP).—A deputy collector for the internal revenue department was shot from ambush Wednesday night. Police said a "hired killer" wounded him.

Vincent Dattilo, 31, was in critical condition with shotgun pellets in his head and spine. He was shot while working his part-time job as a night watchman.

Two policemen were wounded slightly by the same gunman when they came to Dattilo's aid.

Bones of German Kings Exhumed, Reburied

MARBURG, Germany, Aug. 28 (AP).—The bones of two former German monarchs were removed from their temporary resting place in St. Elizabeth Church here today and taken to the state of south Wuertemberg for burial in the family plot. Police cordoned off the square in front of the church as the bones of Frederick the Great, who died in 1786, and King Friedrich Wilhelm I, who died in 1740, were taken from a sarcophagus beneath the church floor.

Thus the last wish of Crown Prince Wilhelm, who died last year in Hechingen, was fulfilled. He had asked that the bones of his ancestors be brought to the family burial ground. Prince Oskar, last living son of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II, attended the exhuming.

Stevenson Gets More Applause, Ike Bigger Crowd in Legion Addresses

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Governor Adlai Stevenson's first major addresses indicate his campaign strategy will lean heavily on a four-point attack emphasizing "you never had it so good" and an attempt to stamp his Republican presidential opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, as a "me-too" candidate.

And political analysts were trying to determine what, if any, significance lies in the fact that in opening speeches—both in New York before the national American Legion convention—Stevenson got more applause, Eisenhower a larger crowd.

Stevenson, in his legion speech and in another delivered Wednesday night at a Democratic rally near Asbury Park, N.J., hit hard on these points:

1. Prosperity—"The people of this country are better off than they or any other people have ever been."

2. Me-Tooism—"On domestic policy, only now are they (the Republicans) slowly and reluctantly accepting the ideas successfully sponsored by the Democratic party years ago. . . It looks more and more to me as though they are going to stand on our program."

3. Foreign policy—"The Republicans are split wide open on foreign policy. . . Some of us are reluctant to admit that peace cannot be won by some clever diplomatic manoeuvre or by propaganda."

4. McCarthyism—"I am not in the delicate position of another candidate for high office, who faces the ticklish problem of whether to swallow his principles and endorse all the candidates running on the same ticket with him."

Eisenhower has said he would support Senator Joseph McCarthy, the controversial Republican Senator from Wisconsin, if McCarthy is reelected. But Eisenhower added at the time he would not give blanket endorsement to any one who "does anything I believe to be un-American in methods or procedure."

Some have charged that McCarthy has gone too far with certain accusations connected with his Communists-in-government drive.

On foreign policy, Stevenson's statement that the Republican program was about as firm as "a bushel of eels" drew a quick retort from Republican Senator Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota. Mundt said Stevenson is attempting to "stand on a bushel of red herrings."

President Truman once said that certain charges of Communism-in-government were just red herrings.

Truman Budget Size of City Phone Book

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—President Truman's farewell gift to Congress will be a government budget the size of a big city phone book, important sections of which are likely to become waste paper within three days.

It isn't Truman's idea. A 1950 law requires him to give Congress a detailed estimate of federal income and outgo within 15 days after the opening of a regular session.

The new 83rd Congress, most of whose membership will be determined in the November elections, convenes next Jan. 3. The budget message must be at the capitol by Jan. 17. At high noon on Jan. 20 a new president takes his oath.

At the same moment, the odds are heavy that key sections of the Truman budget will start heading for the congressional waste baskets. . . Regardless of who wins the presidency, it is unlikely he will agree 100 per cent with his predecessor's fiscal plan for the government accounting year which starts next July 1.

The budget is no simple document a man can spread out before him and say, "we'll cut so much here, and so much there. This particular financial estimate has been under preparation by the Budget Bureau since last May. Long before that, each department was instructed by the White House to state its needs for fiscal 1954."

A vast number of items represent continuing appropriations which cannot be cut.

BOSOX SUFFER BLOW; TROUT LOST FOR 10 DAYS

BOSTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Boston Red Sox—in the thick of the hot American League pennant race—lost the services of pitcher Dizzy Trout today for about 10 days as the result of an ankle injury in a locker-room accident.

The veteran righthander—who only recently suffered a burned throwing arm in a cooking mishap at his home, said his spikes caught in the flooring, adding:

"If I'd have fallen I'd have been all right. But the spike caught and I felt something snap."

Trainer Jack Fadden said he believes Trout will be out of action for 10 days.

WHIP EDMONTON 6-2

Royals Take Soccer Lead

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 28 (BUP).—The New Westminster Royals whipped the Edmonton North Side Legion, 6-2, Wednesday night in the first game of the Western Canada playoffs for the Dominion soccer crown.

Gogie Stewart paced the Royals to their convincing win by racking up four of his team's goals during the second half. The victory put the British Columbia soccer champs one up in the best-of-three series.

Edmonton moved into the scoring bracket within five minutes of the game opening but 10 minutes later the Royals equalized, and the first half ended with the score tied at 1-1.

The Royals ran circles around the Edmonton eleven during the action-packed second half, allowing the Alberta champs to notch only one goal. Tommy Druce of Victoria scored Royals' first goal of the second half from his centre forward slot.

Carr kicked the third New Westminster goal. Stewart then ran wild, slamming the ball into the Edmonton net three times before the game ended.

The second game of the series will be played Friday night, with the third, if necessary, Saturday. All will be at Edmonton's floodlit Clarke Stadium.

Roughriders Edge Als In Eastern Grid Opener

MONTREAL, Aug. 28 (BUP).—Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry lived up to all George Ratterman's press clippings Wednesday night, but he threw just one pass too many.

That was the story of the Ottawa Roughriders' 32-28 victory over the Montreal Alouettes in the Big Four season opener and television debut at Delorimer Downs.

Etcheverry and a cast of 50 performed for 20,566 fans and an untold number of TV-jockeys who caught the first Canadian football game ever picked up by C.B.C. television cameras.

It was a tough one for the hometowners to lose, and even tougher for the cameramen. The Rifle and his opposite number, Tom O'Malley, the cool pivotman who led the Riders to the 1951 Grey Cup, threw a total of 45 passes. One of them was a dinky little fourth-quarter effort down the gut from the Montreal goal line that Pete Karpuk intercepted to save the game for the Ottawas.

Up to that point, the Als had been coming strong. Down 26-11 at half-time, the Rifle's aerial shots to Red O'Quinn, Charley (Hubba) Hubbard, and Jim Orendar had helped them to a brace of scores in the third quarter. The fans were beginning to forget Ratterman, who came in glory and departed in sorrow last season.

But O'Malley winged a 14-yard scoring pass to big Bill Stanton after Karpuk made the game's only interception, and the Als never quite got over it.

Ray Makes Brass Blush

Scarborough Clicks for Yankees in Relief Role

It would not be at all surprising to find the faces of general managers Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox and Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians reddened today.

Their discomfort can be laid to Ray Scarborough, a 35-year-old pickle salesman from Mt. Olive, N.C., who is currently employed as a pitcher by the American League's pace-setting New York Yankees.

Fans in Boston are asking why Cronin sold Scarborough to the Yankees. Those in Cleveland must be wondering why Greenberg passed him up.

Scarborough embarrassed the front office chiefs Wednesday by gaining credit for the Yankees' 12-7 victory over St. Louis. The triumph enabled the Yanks to stretch their lead to two games over the second-place Indians.

The Indians dropped back by bowing 6-5 to Philadelphia. Boston's third-place Red Sox remained 3½ games astern as Mel Parnell shut out Detroit 5-0. In the remaining American League game, Chicago White Sox defeated the Senators 4-1.

Brooklyn stubbed a toe in its march to the National League pennant by dropping a 10-5 decision to Chicago Cubs while the runner-up New York Giants sneaked by Pittsburgh 5-4 to reduce the Dodgers' advantage to 9½ games. In night games, Philadelphia smothered St. Louis, 7-2, and Boston downed Cincinnati, 12-7, in 10 innings.

Scarborough was procured by the Yanks from Boston on Aug. 22 for the $10,000 waiver price. All other clubs in the American League had a chance to hook him before the Yanks, but none nibbled.

Scarborough's record with Boston made one wonder if he wouldn't be better off selling pickles all year round. He started eight games and gained one victory in six decisions.

The latest Yankee entered the game in the third inning in relief of Albie Reynolds, who was tagged for five unearned runs in the second inning. Scarborough limited the Browns to three hits in four innings and was awarded the victory when the Yanks came up with four runs in the sixth to take a 10-6 lead.

Bright Makes Stamps Threat for Grey Cup

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 28 (BUP).—Johnny Bright was out from under his rave notices today and in the open where you could see him for what he is—the guy who may be the difference between victory and defeat for the Calgary Stampede.

The Drake University grad was college football's greatest ground gainer in 1949 and 1950. He was so good they took him out last year by smashing his jaw while play, and the referee, were in another part of the field.

The Stampede, with nowhere to go but up and nothing to lose but the cellar, apparently have found the triple threat back they need. Nobody except coach Les Lear, and perhaps not even him, expected them to lick the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 12-8 in the season opener, and the western champion Saskatchewan Roughriders 21-14 two days later.

Bright didn't score, but he was a powerhouse in both games. He battered his 200 pounds at the line until it hurt and he threw some dandy passes from a spread formation.

Hefty Line Coached by Ed Champagne, the Calgary line is anchored by centre Bill Blackburn from the Chicago Cardinals, and is solid all the way through. The back division also is deep, versatile and has two good quarterbacks in Keith Spait and Stan Heath. Spait is no longer an import. The club itself has drive.

Imports on the Stampeder line include holdovers Bob Shaw, the west's leading scorer in 1951, and fellow ends Paul Salata and Sugarfoot Anderson, plus centre Blackburn. Then there are backfielders Bob Mike and Bob Bryant. Canadians Ray Jensen and Harry Langford appear to have won the nod at guard. Although the second string isn't as strong, it's well-filled with Canadians.

In the backfield, Heath and Spait alternate at quarterback, giving the Stamps a one-two punch similar to the Los Angeles Rams. Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin. When one goes bad, the other is usually good.

Fleet Dave West adds break-away possibilities to the halfback; with Bright supplying power and speed and variety, and Stan Kaluznick running well inside or outside the tackles. Bob McKay holds down the wingback spot.

Two players who haven't been around much since they helped the Stamps to the 1948 Grey Cup, are back this season. Pete Thodos has returned to the halfback after a session with the Montreal Alouettes and line backer Bill Pullar, fresh out of McGill University, adds strength to the defense.

Harry Hood, a capable power back, helps add depth to the backfield.

But if the Stamps are going to follow the trail down to a little Grey Cup in the west, Johnny Bright's the lad who'll have to beat the path for them. And while the Bright paw appears sound, that shoulder he dislocated a couple of times last spring is still giving Coach Lear nightmares.

Bright has a special strap that keeps his arm close to his side, and so far the shoulder hasn't bothered him.

Spanking Is Poor Way To Cure Bed-Wetting

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A distracted mother writes that she is at her wit's end about her seven-year-old boy who still wets the bed at night. To add to the difficulty, she has been advised to give the child a good spanking after each accident, but wonders about this since the boy feels badly enough about it anyway.

Now involuntary urination, or enuresis at night, is by no means a rare problem during childhood and youth. Since, in many cases, it appears to be closely tied to nervous and emotional factors, as will be pointed out later in the column, spanking would ordinarily seem to be about the worst kind of treatment.

Several methods are helpful in treating enuresis. It is usually well to cut out fluids as much as possible after 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Another suggestion which has been made is to give a level teaspoonful of table salt with a little jam on a cracker at bedtime. But remember, this is advisable only if recommended by the doctor.

Good results are obtained, sometimes by awakening the youngster at definite periods during the night in order to urinate.

When control over the urine during sleep is not obtained by the time a child is one-and-a-half years old, or when bed-wetting occurs after being absent for several years, there is a great deal of emotional distress not only in the youngster but in the parents.

Parents not only resent the trouble caused by bed-wetting, but are sensitive to the fact that their child does not seem to par with others of the same age.

When enuresis continues beyond the age at which it should disappear, it is probably because of one or more of three psychological conditions in the child.

The first is that the child has not yet grown up with reference to control of the bladder. The second is that subconsciously the child wishes to remain in or return to the protected, irresponsible state of infancy rather than to assume the normal difficulties of his age.

Finally, there may be a subconscious resentment against the parents in which bed-wetting becomes a way of getting even with them because of too much criticism.

Recently, an authority suggested that parents be given the following advice: a child should not be accused of enuresis until he is well past the age when he could normally be expected to control this function.

Nation's Armed Forces Enlistment Near 100,000

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (CP)—The three regular armed forces should be 100,000 strong within a month or so.

Official figures for the end of July, released today, showed they topped the 99,000 mark by 67 at that time despite the fact the army lost strength because of heavy discharges of special force men.

At the end of July, the picture on the special force men back from Korea and able to take a discharge was this:

Joined active force, 2,711; discharged, 4,048; still to make up their minds, 3,372.

Another 500 have been classed as deserters since the brigade was formed in the summer of 1950 and have never been written off army rolls.

The three forces as a whole recruited 2,314 men in July, including 270 for the navy, 840 for the army and 1,204 for the air force. It was the best recruiting month since April but the net gain over the strength at the end of June—98,358—was just about 700. That is, for every three men they took in they lost two.

The strength of the forces at the end of the month were 14,133 for the navy, 49,586 for the army and 35,348 for the air force.

Thus the army must have discharged about 1,100 men in July because it was about 300

Farmers Find Motorbikes Useful In Getting Around

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (BUP)—Canadian farmers are getting so mechanized the farmers ride motorcycles "instead of horses," British cycle manufacturers said today.

The Birmingham Small Arms Co. Ltd., showing motorcycles and bicycles at the Canadian National Exhibition, said the most interested of the many customers to show up have been Ontario and Quebec farmers, who are increasingly turning to motorcycles as a means of transportation around the farm and to town.

Canadian motorcycle buyers are chiefly interested in transportation, not thrills or noise, B.S.A. officials said. Most sales are made to rural or suburban areas. The British motorbikes and bicycles are both unusually light, making it easier for a rider who falls to pick up his machine and get going again.

B.S.A. officials said results of the exhibition are better than expected and were especially pleased with the interest in bicycles.

British Cars in Spotlight at C.N.E.

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (BUP)—Canadians gawped by the thousands today at Britain's finest cars, which can—on demand—be outfitted with bar, picnic supplies, writing desk, washstand, bed and telephone.

What's more, they bought them. After four days at the Canadian National Exhibition, members of the British Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders put sold signs on everything ranging from $1,500 Morris minis to a $16,000 Rolls Royce.

Sir William Walsh, North American representative of the society, said the show was a real success. Not only were the crowds, which reached 100,000 daily in the British tent, snapping up the inexpensive small cars, but numbers of them were weighing the regal Rolls Royce and Daimler as "good long-term investments."

"They last you a lifetime, you know," said Group Capt. Bertram Vautier of the Rolls Royce squad. "You get them all fitted out inside to suit you. By jove, it's like buying a house."

The Rolls Royce people sold a $16,000 convertible, with a special adjustment for rough-riding Canadian roads, on the third day of the show. They had a number of nibbles on the big $17,000 state parade-type sedan, most expensive car on the floor. A flunky went over it with a dust cloth continuously.

The British luxury cars appeal to "canny" Canadians, Welsh explained, because they don't go out of style. There's none of this nonsense of adding portholes one year and taking them away the next.

CUSTOM MADE

These small luxury cars are all custom-made. For your money you get thick plushy carpets, pigskin cigarette cases and notebooks, adjustable arm and foot rests, a device which gives a car its regular grease job while running, and a small set of tools embedded in foam rubber (no rattling).

"We try to think of everything," Vautier admitted. "It's our business."

You can also order a writing desk, wash basin, picnic hamper, cocktail bar and/or telephone to the front seat and the world outside. Beds are popular in models created for motorists in Africa where motels are infrequent.

One rich Englishman got his car gold-plated. Cost him $40,000. The largest car in the show is the $13,000 "Royal Family" model Daimler, about 19 feet from bonnet to boot. It drew a number of nibbles during the opening days. A smaller, but still aristocratic Daimler convertible sells for a pebbles $6,500. The exhibitors have taken several orders.

The smallest car is the 12-foot $1,500 Morris minor, which is about $500 cheaper than any Canadian car and gets about twice as many miles to the gallon. The Morris people sold 14 off the floor in three days.

Injured Interior Man

Flown to Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28 (BUP)—W. G. Bullock, a 40-year-old Williams Lake truck driver seriously injured at Williams Lake six weeks ago when a truck ran over him, was flown to Vancouver, Wednesday, for further medical treatment.

Bullock was driving a friend's truck when he reached over to close a loose door as the truck went around a corner. He was thrown out and fell under the truck, suffering broken legs and a pelvic fracture. One leg was amputated at Williams Lake. Bullock's condition in St. Paul's Hospital was reported as "fairly good" today.

I've just read a column titled "The Coloured" and I was immediately convinced we've reached an all time low in advertising. Wherever did you get the idea I had a girl in Duncan? and another in Ladysmith? I've never had the slightest skirmish with a lady in any place you mention, altho I do recall playing a little tennis with a lovely young thing at Salt Spring Island. . . . Oh! that was a summer! I remember she had her ears pierced and wore flowered Organdie.

I would also like to correct another false accusation you made in that ridiculous column. . . . Sure I often went dancing at the Hotel on a Saturday night, but I always held them a Viennese Waltzing distance away, and at NO time did I ever get in the middle and dance on a dime as your lines suggested. . . . 'Course if they insisted, and if we somehow drifted to the centre, and if she didn't seem to want all that exercise, well then, I suppose we hesitated now and then. . . . but so much. Pabulum has flowed under the bridge since then, that I do not remember. In any case I was never the SNAKE you pictured.

You were right about the Yellow Rooster, only it was black. In the end Bruce scraped off most of the paint sneaking it out of the garage.

I forgive you tho' and if you do it again, try to scan it a little better, my stuff is terrible but yours is worse. . . . however, if it sells a chrome set or two I really don't mind.

Got more tan today and when I walk down the beach. . . . BOY. . . . you should hear the girls whistle! Too bad I'm cloistered, as these gorgeous sun sets can't be doing them much good. . . . ALONE!

Miss Penticton Is P.N.E. Queen

Joan Nagle Wins $1,000 Beauty Prize Over 13 Contestants; Plans University, Nursing

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28 (CP).—Joan Nagle's beauty brought her $1,000 tonight when she was chosen as queen of the 1952 Pacific National Exhibition.

The 17-year-old brunette from Penticton, B.C., won the "Miss P.N.E." crown over 13 other contestants in a ceremony at the show's outdoor theatre.

Joan was presented with a $1,000 cheque which she says will be used for university fees when she completes her education at Penticton Senior High.

And the beauty has a Queen Joan career in mind. She plans to become a nurse and considers marriage "a long way off."

The title was won last year by Inez McLeod of Victoria. The Victoria contender this year was 19-year-old Gayle Webster.

Miss Nagle is the daughter of a Canadian National Railways conductor. She does her own sewing and works summers in a Penticton dress shop.

Statistics: Weight, 121 pounds; height, five feet, six inches; bust, 34 inches; waist, 24 inches; hips, 36 inches; eyes, grey-green.

And Joan has a mind of her own. Asked what her best thought of her entering the contest, she replied:

"I guess he didn't have too much to say about it."

LESS 'BUMPS' SHOW GOES ON

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28 (BUP)—Three Vancouver police detectives closed down the "French Follies" on the Pacific National Exhibition midway Wednesday night, then changed their minds after listening to the persuasive operator of the show.

The officers objected to the dancing routine of Jean Hunter, 23-year-old "exotic" dancer from Portland, Ore., who stars in the show.

The operator, Lyle Baker of Vancouver, said that while her dance was exotic, it wasn't a strip tease. The police allowed Baker to continue the show providing Miss Hunter cut out some of the "bumps."

JUVENILE OFFICER TO RULE WHETHER BOYS CHARGED

It is for the juvenile officer to decide whether three little boys, the eldest 11 and the youngest eight, will have to appear in court on a charge of breaking and entering.

They were caught on the scene when they returned for a second search for loot.

On their first visit, when they entered the premises of Saanich Lumber Company through a window, they took only a few pencils.

On their second visit they broke through a rear door to the offices. The police were watching for them.

The juvenile officer is studying the case and will decide whether or not the three boys will face charges.

RING EDITOR SAYS ROCKY WILL STOP JOE

MONTREAL, Aug. 28 (BUP).—Ring Magazine publisher Nat Fleischer predicted Wednesday that Rocky Marciano will knock out Jersey Joe Walcott in their heavyweight title fight next month.

"The old boy hasn't got it any more," said Nat. "Jersey Joe is all through and God knows how old he really is. Marciano will knock him out."

The "Mr. Know-it-all-about boxing," said Walcott could be "dangerous" during the early rounds but expected a kayo by Marciano "soon after the fifth—if it goes that far."

Higher Salaries For U.K. Atomic Experts Suggested

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Britain's atomic arms program is being held up because the government's atomic scientists don't make enough money, a parliamentary committee reported today. Qualified scientists prefer to work for private industry at higher wages.

The report of the select committee on estimates, a watchdog group to see that the taxpayer gets his money's worth, urged the government to raise salaries and improve working conditions for its atomic experts.

A top government scientist can get £2,000 a year—good pay compared with average British salaries but small in comparison with the £3,000 or more that industrial companies offer ordinary research men.

PUBLIC ASKED TO WATCH FOR BANDED BIRDS

Vancouver Island residents have been asked to inspect any dead birds they find to determine if they are banded.

The band should be removed from the bird and sent to the address listed on the band along with information about location of the find, its species and sex.

In the last year more than 1,000 birds, including sparrows, juncos, seagulls, ducks, quail and grouse have been banded by Canadian Wildlife Service workers Charles Guiguet, provincial museum biologist; Douglas Wood and H. M. S. Bell.

Reports on the dead birds will help in mapping the history, habit and movements of different forms of birdlife.

BETWEEN TIMES

By PUNCH ROBERTS

You have heard it called a dog's life. Well, I KNOW it is a dog's life, because I am a dog. But am I allowed to chase pigeons in Beacon Hill Park? Am I permitted to stroll down Government Street, exchanging notes with friends and acquaintances? Am I even allowed to curl up and sleep peacefully?

I am not. I am told to write a column for the Old Man who has been taken down with a severe fit of laziness.

In a way, I brought it on myself. For several weeks I have been trying to persuade the Old Man to let me go to the office with him, because it is lonesome around the house. And he finally agreed but I had to promise to write his column.

Well, it can't be any worse than most of HIS efforts.

The staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Government and Fort Street believe they found a lost dog yesterday. This dog, a golden brown retriever, was wandering around in the lobby of the bank, so the staff jumped to the conclusion that he was lost.

Naturally, he wasn't lost at all. He was there to rent a safety deposit box. With the current price of meat you can't leave bones lying around any old place.

By the way—dogs NEVER get lost. A dog always knows, exactly where he is. It is only human beings who persist in moving around all the time and sometimes get separated from their dogs.

When this happens, it is the human being who is lost, not the dog. The wise dog will refrain from running around in circles; if he sits where he is, and waits long enough, his human being will become found again.

I cannot understand human beings. They do some extraordinary things.

Take that nice old gentleman, Bernard Macfadden, for instance.

I have it on reliable authority that Mr. Macfadden, at the advanced age of 84 (that's TWELVE YEARS OLD in a dog's life!), intends to parachute into that famous river in France.

He will do so while clad in his long, red underwear.

I am not positive, but after he jumps, I believe he will be in Seine.

I was sitting in the car yesterday, minding my own business, and issuing warning barks to anyone who was bold enough to walk by, when I saw a most amazing sight.

A big moving truck drove by, and who do you think was driving it?

Radioman Don Wilson.

I guess the firm was proving its slogan: "Whether it's big or teeny..." If they have the equipment to handle Wilson, they can handle anything.

One thing I've always said about Wilson. As an announcer, he'd make a wonderful truck driver.

Well, I guess that will hold the Old Man's constituents for today. You'll excuse me if I leave... I have to go out to Ogden Point and cuss a seagull.

Protest Against Maquinna's Withdrawal Supplements Demand for Coast Service

Strong demand for better transport services for the West Coast is building up among business groups on Vancouver Island.

At a mass protest meeting Wednesday sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of Port Renfrew, irate residents condemned the proposed removal of the Ss. Princess Maquinna from the West Coast Island run.

J. S. Anderson, president of the Port Renfrew chamber, said today that his group is demanding temporary boat service to replace the Maquinna and immediate action on a West Coast road.

Representations are going forward to provincial and federal government transportation officials, Mr. Anderson said, on behalf of the entire community.

Plans were also made at Wednesday's meeting to have representatives from the Port Renfrew chamber attend the forthcoming meeting of the Associated Chambers of Vancouver Island, to be held in Victoria Sept. 3, Mr. Anderson said.

Problems of Island Highway and coastal shipping services will be fully discussed at the meeting, T. G. Denny, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said.

Representatives from all major Island centres are scheduled to attend the meeting, which will be under the chairmanship of R. H. Mawhinney of Nanaimo, who this year is president of the association of Island chambers of commerce.

Airways' Competition Blamed for Maquinna's Withdrawal

By MONTE ROBERTS
Times Marine Reporter

Times change in the transportation world, as in every other field, and there are casualties strewn along the road of progress.

In coast-wise shipping, this fact has been dramatized by the C.P.R. decision to pull out of the failing West Coast of Vancouver Island trade.

As Capt. O. J. Williams, general manager of the B.C. Coast Service, puts it: "Business pays the bill—and business goes by air."

Even businessmen who would prefer a leisurely sea voyage feel they cannot afford the time; and in many cases, the boss simply orders his representative to fly. Business doesn't wish to pay salaries for long periods of travel.

The B.C. Coast Service recognized the challenge of the airlines some time ago and faced the fact that business would be lost to the speedier transportation method. But it was also agreed by officials that water transport offers one tremendous advantage over air; in a ship, a passenger can take his automobile with him.

For this reason, the car-carrying Princess of Nanaimo was built, and she has proven a great success. At the present time she is carrying from 700 to 800 cars daily.

Captain Williams estimates that the various Canadian Pacific ships will carry 180,000 cars to and from Vancouver Island this year.

"You can average three passengers per car," he says. "And that is the reason the next ship we build will be an even larger car-truck-passenger combination."

"Our objective is to carry everything on wheels," he says.

Ogden Point continues to jog along at a productive pace, with two ships in this week, and three expected over the "holiday" weekend—which will be no holiday for stevedores, dock agents and shipping men.

Lime Bay Policy's Critics Under Fire

Ald. Margaret Christie Blames Press and Radio

Ald. Margaret Christie, chairman of city council's health and welfare committee, today attacked critics who have expressed opposition to her committee's plan to clean out the Lime Bay shantytown.

Speaking at a meeting of City Council, Mrs. Christie placed much of the responsibility for the criticism on the press and radio. She said a one-sided story of Lime Bay conditions had been presented to the public.

"I know very well that the storm of abuse could well have moved in the other direction," Mrs. Christie maintained. "What would the community say if even one old man died in a fire before help could reach him?"

The lone woman member of council said living conditions at Lime Bay were "so bad that whatever change they made would be for the better."

"In attempting to remove sub-standard dwellings from the community, the council has never at any time ignored the well-being of the occupants," she said.

ERRONEOUS, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Christie said it was erroneous to say the city was trying to force the Lime Bay residents into the Aged Men's Home.

"No pensioner will be forced to give up his independence," she declared. "Remarks I made at last council meeting were misinterpreted. I merely stated there was accommodation available with no thought of forcing any man into that home."

"Residence in the home has always been on a voluntary basis."

She said there were about 2,700 pensioners in this city and only a small percentage of them were in homes.

PAY THEIR WAY

"There are hundreds of independent pensioners in our midst who are paying their way and keeping their independence," she said.

Mrs. Christie said constant criticism was levelled at the city because building, fire and health regulations were being enforced rigidly in some sections and being completely ignored in others. She said the city's move to evict Lime Bay dwellers was in line with the policy of dealing with "worst conditions first."

"We cannot ask our officials to ignore the contravention of building, fire and health by-laws in Lime Bay and to enforce them elsewhere in the city."

Mrs. Christie singled out the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council for a special tongue lashing.

CONSTANT CLAMOR

She said this organization had consistently clamored for building restrictions. Now, she said, it apparently wanted the restrictions ignored at Lime Bay.

"It is certainly discouraging in the least to receive criticism of this nature from such an organization."

She continued: "Throughout the criticism levelled at the council and my committee, there seems to be the opinion that the council is determined to make the lot of the pensioners in Lime Bay more difficult."

"I should like to state as emphatically as it can be stated that such is not the case. Our constant battle has been for better accommodation and for better care for them."

"What can be done and what we have been doing for some time is to control housing by insisting on a certain standard. We will not permit occupancy of shacks and sheds on Rockland Avenue nor in Lime Bay."

"This is the only way we can be sure to avoid blighted areas."

THREE VICTIMS

Examiner Hurt When Learner Lost Control

Peter Turgoose can tell anyone interested why drivers' testers are sometimes testy.

When former football star Turgoose, now a Provincial Motor Vehicles Branch driving examiner, was putting Mrs. Megan Williams, Youbou, daughter of Magistrate A. I. Thomas, through her test Wednesday evening, she lost control of the car. She "froze" at the wheel at Government and Toronto, drove into a telephone cable pole and across the sidewalk into a fence.

Turgoose got his ribs bruised. Meanwhile, downtown, two little boys were struck by a car on the intersection at Yates and Cook... by another driver with a learner's license.

The boys, Ralph and Carl Gustafson, eight and nine, were bumped by a car driven by Kwei Chen, police report. The qualified driver with him was Stepher Steux, Ralph is in Jubilee Hospital with head injuries. Carl got a scraped elbow.

Pioneer Resident, T. Horne, Dead

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. in McCall's chapel for Thomas Henderson Horne, who died here Wednesday at 86.

He is survived by his wife Isabella, at the family residence, 1215 Pandora; two daughters, Mrs. Byron Shade and Miss Margaret Horne, of Victoria; five sons, Stafford of Vancouver, Thomas of Edmonton, James of San Francisco and Dr. Robert L. and Jack of Victoria; 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, and a sister in Australia.

Rev. W. C. Wilson will officiate.

City Fire Force In Defense Tests

All fire departments in Greater Victoria and outlying areas will take part in a mass civil defense exercise some time next month.

Leonard Hatcher, civil defense head here, said today equipment will respond to an alarm and disperse to pre-arranged points in the first test of its type in the civil defense program here.

Amateur radio operators will provide communication facilities for those departments in the outside areas without radios.

Sleepers Disturbed By Noisy Vehicles

Complaint of noise caused by trucks and lumber carriers, transporting lumber to Ogden Point docks in the early morning hours, was received at City Hall today.

The complaint was framed in a petition from M. G. Cowper-Smith and 57 others, most of them residents of Montreal Street. The petition asked City Council take some action to prevent the noisy vehicles from using Montreal Street during the sleeping hours.

Original intention of the cyclical billing was to save personnel by avoiding peak billing periods.

Leaders of Medical World To Speak at Parleys Here

Among the well-known medical men who will speak at the convention are: Dr. Kenneth A. Hamilton, associate professor of medicine, University of Alberta; Dr. Harold L. Richards, assistant clinical professor of surgery, University of Alberta; Dr. A. H. Bill Jr., pediatric surgeon, Seattle; Dr. Roy W. Richardson, chairman, committee of economics, APPOINTMENT has been made of Joseph S. Broadbent, 36, chief draughtsman of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway construction department, as assistant deputy minister of railways. Appointment was approved by order-in-council Tuesday. In addition to his P.G.E. position, Mr. Broadbent was senior draughtsman in the provincial railways department. He has been with the department since 1946.

B.C. INSURANCE BILLING REFORM MARTIN PLEDGE

A cyclical billing system used by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, which has been blamed for a great amount of confusion among the public, will be abandoned by the end of September, Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin said today.

Mr. Martin said it is felt that a majority of the people prefer paying their hospital insurance premiums on the regular half-yearly basis.

The cyclical system, assistant commissioner D. M. Cox explained, is being done away with gradually, and for some time anybody wanting to pay premiums on a half-yearly basis, instead of under the cyclical system, have been permitted to do so.

Original intention of the cyclical billing was to save personnel by avoiding peak billing periods. But the system confused the public, and as a result actually took additional workers. Because of this, it is not expected the reversion to the old system will save personnel.

Here's a Dandy Method For Repairing Screens

By PENNY SAVER

It is a sad but true fact that carefree days at the summer cottage are just about over. It won't be long before you have to pack up and face the trials and tribulations of city life.

Before you leave the cottage, or during the winter months, you may want to fix the place up a bit.

Probably one of the most functional and basic pieces of furniture around the summer cottage, or even in your city home, is folding screens. They are very handy in the small apartment, too, and by using two of them, a room can be partitioned into two separate ones. They can be used to separate off a section for a little dressing room or on crowded week-ends they can make extra sleeping quarters.

Because of their many uses, screens usually take a lot of wear and tear, especially at cottages. But here's a way to re-cover them with an all-wool fibre panel which is smooth, splinter-proof and dent-resistant. A masonite panel, an eighth of an inch thick, does the trick.

First of all, remove the old covering and any remaining adhesive or nails. It is also wise to tighten up the framework with corrugated fasteners and check the hinges. Then both sides of the screen section should be covered with this pressed wood.

For a change in pace you can try the masonite leatherwood, which has an embossed surface similar to Spanish grain leather. This can also be given a tone-on-tone finish and for further dress-up, decorative tacks can be used.

But if you prefer a perfectly smooth panel which is easily decorated with paint, enamel, wax, stain, wallpaper or decalcomanias, use the standard pressed wood type of hardboard.

After cutting the panel to the exact size of the framework, bevel the edges slightly with a file, plane or sandblock. Fasten the panels by using a good grade of adhesive; the same you'd use for attaching hardboard panels over old plaster walls. Clamps will assure a good bond. And if the renewed screen is to be tapered, be sure to size the pressed wood panels first.

Now, if you just follow the suggestions, the handyman in your house can construct the folding screen from scratch. The framework is made of 1x2-inch lumber and the cross supports should be placed 16 inches on centre.

Untempered masonite panelling sells at $2.88 for a sheet 4x8 feet. Tempered masonite panelling is $4.16 for the same amount.

Masonite leatherwood sells at $12.80 for a sheet the same size, 4x8 feet.

On Alaska Trip

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28.—Baseball will compete with scenery as a subject of conversation on the Canadian National Steamships' Prince George when the ship's passengers learn that among them is Larry MacPhail, ex-president of the famous New York Yankees.

Mr. and Mrs. MacPhail arrived in Vancouver from Jasper Park Lodge Tuesday morning and a few hours later caught the Prince George for a ten-day cruise to northern B.C. and Alaska. Among other well-known passengers on the ship are Mr. and Mrs. Elliott McAllister with their daughter, Miss Elizabeth and their son, Alexander. Mr. McAllister is president of the Bank of California, San Francisco. From halfway across the continent comes Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scott. He is general manager of the Chevrolet division of General Motors at Flint, Mich. This is the "George's" eighth and last sailing of the 1952 summer cruise season, returning to Vancouver on September 5.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CUCUMBER MARMALADE

Two and one-half cups prepared cucumber, 3/4 cups (1 1/2 lbs.) sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin, 4 cup lemon juice, 1 to 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind.

To prepare the cucumber—Peel about 2 pounds fully ripe cucumbers. Chop very fine or grind. Measure 2 1/2 cups into a large saucepan.

To make the marmalade—Measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan holding cucumber over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin, lemon juice and rind and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating particles. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about six six-ounce glasses.

Note: If desired, a few drops of green coloring may be added while mixture is coming to a boil.

A Bachelor Girl Is Better Off Than an Unhappy Wife

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Most people associate love with youth. Youthful love is intense and passionate, but so are all youthful emotions. This young woman wonders if she is in love, just because she does not feel the passion of youth:

(Q.) "I am 34 and dating a man of 33. Out of the six months we have gone steady, I have loved him only three months. He hasn't done anything to make me sweet, but I just don't love him any more. He is sweet, has a wonderful position, and I hear that he still loves me. We were to be married this fall and my friends all tell me that love will come after our marriage. Should I marry him without love? I know it is hard for a woman of my age to find a man. Am I too old to fall in love?"

(A.) No one is too old to fall in love, but you must realize that the type of love you experience changes as you grow older. The passionate love of youth disappears as people approach middle age. If you are still looking for that kind of love, you are very likely to find it out your reach now.

As for your friends' advice, I do not agree with them. Some people do fall in love after marriage but most come to hate the person they have married. It is not fair to you or to the man who loves you to take such a gamble.

So long as you are unsure of your feelings give up your plans to marry him this fall. Tell him frankly how you feel and let him decide whether this will merely postpone your marriage or be a complete break.

It is hard for a woman of your age to find a man who is in a position to marry. This is the "in-between age" for marriage and eligible men are scarce. That, however, does not justify your dashing into a marriage with a man you do not love. There's no disgrace to being a "bachelor girl." It's preferable to being an unhappy, disgruntled, and disillusioned wife.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's great psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Exercise Your Emotions As Well as Your Muscles

This is a recent quote from the magazine "Pageant."

"A school teacher went to the head of his institution with the complaint that his seniority rights had been violated and a younger man had won the position to which he felt entitled. He demanded of the principal an explanation of why his 20 years' experience had been ignored. 'My friend,' said the head of the school, 'you really haven't had 20 years' experience. You have had one year's experience 20 times.'"

This seems to me to be very true. Neither experience nor life can be measured in years. It is entirely possible to go down the years in a state of unawareness, with little observation or interpretation, learning nothing new. Just because so many days and years flow over us is no guarantee that we know more than someone else who has lived a shorter time or had a shorter period of experience.

We must be aware and constantly exercise our powers in order to progress through experience rather than atrophy with it. If we put an arm in a sling it soon becomes weak and useless. If we do not use our brains in constant work and study we speed the way to senility. If our emotions have become dull and are never whipped up by enthusiasm or sadness, eagerness or tenderness, keen enjoyment or anticipation, they soon wither away. We have to keep these as well as our mind active if they are not to deteriorate.

People seem to forget this universal truth. They finish school

Taste in Cheese Show Big Variety

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (CP)—How do you like your cheese?

Most people in Ottawa like theirs on the mild side. People in Vancouver favor medium-strength cheese. Most Torontonians lean towards the old, strong kind.

That's the finding of investigations by the Department of Agriculture into cheese consumption trends in the three cities. The department found almost all families in the three cities use some type of cheese. Less than 5 per cent of the housewives interviewed indicated they never have cheese on the family menu.

The investigation disclosed that processed cheese is somewhat more popular than cheddar but most families use both types. Cheddar cheese is used in 90 per cent of Ottawa cheese-using households compared with 80 per cent in Vancouver and 70 per cent in Toronto.

Cottage cheese is used in about three-quarters of all Vancouver cheese-consuming households, much more than in the other two cities. Other kinds of cheese such as Gruyere, oke and Danish Blue are used by one-third to one-half of all families in each of the three centres.

The investigators found colored cheese was more favored than the uncolored kind. The department concluded this was because colored cheese "looks more appetizing and has eye appeal."

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS

MONTREAL, August 28th.—Like every woman, I like to be actually in the store, trying on the new Fall clothes—not on the outside looking wishfully in. And, this year, thanks to Personal Planning, I can afford some lovely new things! Yes, the wherewithal for my new autumn outfit is in my Savings Account at the BANK OF MONTREAL. And my savings are mounting all the time! Yet my income's the same—the secret, you see, is that the booklet called "Personal Planning" helps me to set aside a definite amount for clothing every month—in such a painless way! Of course, I've been a Personal Planner for quite some time. At the beginning it takes a bit of working at—but finally it becomes a happy part of one's life. It's so good to know that you've really saved up the money you need for pretty new clothes—as well as for more important things, too! Want to try it? The booklet called "Personal Planning" is yours for the asking at your nearest B of M branch.

Are You In A "Pretty Pickle" now that pickling time is here? I hope it's not too late to tell you about the shrewdest way I know to buy your favorite pickling vinegar. Buy it in the big gallon jug. Yes, HEINZ WHITE VINEGAR in the gallon jug saves you 25c on every cup as compared with smaller containers. And of course you get more than economy when you buy this vinegar packed by the folks who make pickles famous! You get the full-bodied flavor and uniform strength so necessary for preserving the crisp texture and fresh taste of your pickles. So order Heinz White Vinegar by the gallon jug—and if it doesn't have the free recipe booklet, "Pickling Success", attached—write to me for it—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.

After The Ball Is Over . . . do your feet hurt so much you say you'll never dance again? Then here's good news. Phenylum is a new wonder-working ingredient in BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters and Callus Plasters . . . and, believe me, it does work wonders to give relief from corns and calluses. It took ten years of scientific research by Blue-Jay to develop Phenylum. And now they've perfected it to the point where it works faster and is effective in 95% of the cases tested. I can vouch for its effectiveness, too. No more worries about corns or calluses—I just rely on Blue-Jay with Phenylum to keep my feet forever happy.

Something To Look Forward To when you wake up in the morning . . . a savoury, astin-smooth "CREAM OF WHEAT" for breakfast. Top it with brown sugar or raisins—and milk—and give the folks as much as they want for 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is good for them. It provides iron for good red blood—and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. So do so many families do—make "Cream of Wheat" a breakfast habit. It's quick and easy to prepare—takes just five minutes of boiling to cook to m-mmm!—delicious smoo-mmm.

Looking Forward To A "Full House" over Labour Day week-end? Here's something you should have for comfortable, relaxed entertaining . . . INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. It's delicious. That's because it's made by real coffee people. There's flavour, body and a real lift. And it's as easy to make ten cups as one. Takes no longer than boiling the water! Another thing you'll like about it is that it saves you up to 40c a pound compared with ground coffee. The small-size jar of Instant Chase & Sanborn holds almost the equivalent of a pound of ground coffee—and just look at the difference in price! So take my tip and get a supply of Instant Chase & Sanborn for Labour Day entertaining!

Pretty Important To A Man—snow-white shirt! So you can take a bow when your husband raves about the whiteness of his. But give some of the credit to Blue. For Blue does the best job of all in keeping clothes from turning yellow. Just a swish or two of Blue in the final rinse—that's all there is to it. And Blue is so safe for even the fine fabric in your wash. Those wonderful sheets you got for your anniversary . . . the luncheon set that's your pride and joy. Don't take chances—use Blue to keep them white. Costs just a few pennies a month—and that makes good sense, doesn't it? Yes, for the whitest wash, it's RECKITT'S BLUE!

As honorary president of the Victoria Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. Clarence Wallace received the president and first vice-president, Mrs. E. S. Farr and Mrs. Gordon Wismer, pictured above, and other members of the club at an afternoon reception at Government House on

After passing through the receiving line, club members strolled in the gardens, now bright with late summer flowers, or enjoyed the sunshine in the palm room opening on the terrace above the sea.

August Nuptial Service In First United Church

Rev. Moir A. J. Waters officiated at the nuptial service in First United Church Saturday evening which united Margaret Isobel Freeman, daughter of Lieut. F. Freeman, R.C.N., and Mrs. Freeman, Heron Street, and John Murray Smellie, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Smellie, Wellington Avenue.

The church was decorated with pink and white gladioli and Mrs. Roberto Wood played organ music. During the signing of the register J. Fee sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white ballerina-length gown fashioned with lace bodice, Peter Pan collar and short sleeves with long petal-point mitts of lace. The skirt was of one nylon net with panels of lace over double layers of filmy net, the whole dress poised over white taffeta. Her chapel veil of nylon net edged with lace was caught to her head by a satin halo embroidered with pearl sequins. The groom's gift, a pearl necklace and earrings, were her only jewelry, and her crescent bouquet was of pink roses and white feathered carnations with stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Leona Hulme, chose pink, while bridesmaids Miss Mary Putman and Miss Evelyn Slater wore blue and mauve, respectively. Their gowns were similarly styled in nylon net over taffeta with matching bolero and mitts. All had bandeaux of tinted starched lace trimmed with flowers to correspond with the gladioli, pastel sweet peas and blue scabiosa in their crescent bouquets.

Flower girls were Carole Ann Coxworth and Lynn Tupper, wearing toe-touching frocks of blue and mauve taffeta, respectively. Their floral bandeaux matched the sweet peas and feathered carnations in their small crescent bouquets. The bridegroom had Leslie Aitken as best man, and ushers were Charles Callow and Reg Lewis.

The reception was held in the Flamingo Room of the Crystal Garden, where the parents of the couple received guests with them in a setting of pastel gladioli. Mrs. Freeman was attired in delphinium blue lace over crepe with amethyst feather hat and veil, and corsage of pale pink carnations; and Mrs. Smellie was gowned in cocoa crepe with brown hat and corsage of yellow gladioli.

Pastel sweet peas topped the three-tiered wedding cake and decorated the table which was lighted by pink candles. The health of the bride was proposed by Lieut. H. S. McDougall, R.C.N. (retired).

Upon leaving for her honeymoon in Seaside, Ore., the bride wore an apple green knitted suit with close-fitting hat of brown velvet, beige topcoat and dark brown cobra shoes and purse, with corsage of yellow roses and gardenias.

Bess Myerson, hostess of N.B.C.'s Monday-through-Friday quiz program, The Big Payoff (KING-TV at 12 noon), is the only Miss America (1945) to successfully continue to greater heights in public life.

A New Yorker, she was brought up in the Bronx and attended Hunter College, where she developed a strong talent for music. A year after winning the Miss America title, she was invited to appear as guest soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall.

Shortly afterwards, she married and retired from active participation in the music world. After the birth of a daughter in 1947, TV offers started to come her way and she was starred in several network and local programs.

Although her duties on the Big Payoff quiz program allow her little spare time, Bess Myerson has continued to conduct a half-hour musical program over a local TV outlet in New York City. Still avidly interested in serious music, she has used her local show to introduce talented young artists of concert and opera.

IN THE TIME OF THE TIMES

In the past, she has lectured on coast-to-coast tours, appearing before high school audiences, parent-teacher groups and women's clubs.

In addition to all this, the Miss America of 1945 still has the same weight and physical dimensions she had when she won the coveted crown at Atlantic City.

In observance of the theme of the 1952 fair, "The Family," California's biggest real-life family—Mr. and Mrs. William Tyler and their 18 children—will also be on hand when N.B.C. broadcasts the opening.

B.C.'s Two Ministers Without House Seats Create No Precedent in Canadian Politics

By BRIAN O'LEARY
Times Ottawa Representative

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—The step taken by B.C.'s Premier Bennett in appointing two non-M.L.A.'s to cabinet posts is not without precedent in either provincial or federal politics. Many a cabinet minister in both federal and provincial politics did not have a seat at first in the legislature to which he was responsible.

In the federal field, there are innumerable examples of cabinet ministers who, for a short while, did not have a seat in the House of Commons.

There are at least four in the present federal cabinet who were in that position when they first entered the federal political scene.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent was justice minister in MacKenzie King's wartime cabinet for two months before he was first elected to the Commons at a by-election.

Another case is that of External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson who was in the cabinet six weeks before he won a by-election. Justice Minister Stuart Garson and State Secretary Gordon Bradley are two other contemporary examples.

From the moment of their appointment, these four all administered their departments like any other minister. But, also they all found seats in the Commons within months of their appointment.

HAD TO RESIGN

The most recent cases of men appointed to the federal cabinet and then having to resign their posts because they could not get seats were those of General A. G. L. MacNaughton and of the present Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick, D. L. MacLaren. MacNaughton was sworn in as defense minister in the latter part of 1944. He tried to get a seat couple of months later, but was defeated.

The general tried again many months later at the 1945 general election to get into the Commons, but was unsuccessful. All this time he administered his department, with another minister acting in his stead in the Commons.

After the second failure to get a seat, he resigned his portfolio.

DEFEATED AT POLLS

The other recent case was that of Mr. MacLaren. He was made minister of national revenue in Premier King's cabinet in early April, 1945. He did not try to get into the Commons via a by-election, but waited for the general election two months later in June. He was defeated at the polls, so he resigned.

Closer to home as far as Premier Bennett is concerned is what happened to his Social Credit conferees in Alberta in 1935 when that party first swept into power in the oil province.

At that election, the Alberta Social Credit leader, Mr. Aberhart, was not a candidate, but he immediately became premier. One of the ministers in his cabinet was not an M.L.A. either. Both, however, soon found seats in the Alberta Legislature via by-elections.

AMERICAN TRIES

Has Trouble Spending $10 Canadian

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28 (CP)—A reporter for the Portland Oregonian today found trouble spending $10 in Canadian money on a shopping tour. At the present rate of exchange the money was worth $10.25 in U.S. funds.

The reporter, James Stuart, said he cashed the first three dollars without difficulty, making purchases at two department stores and a dime store. All transactions were made at a dollar-for-dollar exchange.

After that, he said, he had trouble. A newsstand dealer refused the money. The theatre cashiers referred him to nearby banks. Other merchants reported they had trouble exchanging the money at banks.

But bankers told a different story. They said exchanges were made gladly at the correct and higher rate.

Canadian tourists have complained U.S. merchants are reluctant to accept their money, even though it is worth more at the present rate of exchange.

CANADIANS DEVELOPING GREATER SWEET TOOTH

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (BUP)—Canadians are developing a hungrier sweet tooth, according to a bureau of statistics report. The facts and figures agency said Wednesday that larger quantities of cookies, chewing gum, chocolate bars, and sugar confectionery were produced during the second quarter of 1952 than the same period of last year.

There were declines in the output of soda biscuits and marshmallows. Cookie production was up roughly 4,000,000 pounds to 48,109,646; gum was up 400,000 pounds to 3,856,339; chocolate bars up 3,000,000 dozen to 11,065,688, and sugar confectionery 600,000 pounds to 14,943,025.

New Yugoslavia Rail Plan To Provide Adriatic Port

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 28 (Reuters)—Plans to give Yugoslavia a major port on the Adriatic other than disputed Trieste will be put into operation next year when Tito's government plans to begin work on the country's biggest postwar engineering project.

The plan calls for developing the resort town of Bar, on the southern Adriatic coast, into the country's second largest seaport, and connecting it to Belgrade with a 310-mile railroad through some of Yugoslavia's most backward and desolate territory.

The nearest point in Yugoslavia to overseas markets, the new port will cost over $4,000,000 and is scheduled to handle about 1,500,000 tons of commerce a year. Already nearly 400 feet of breakwater have been constructed and plans call for the port of Bar to be able to handle ships of all sizes by 1954.

SIX-YEAR PROJECT

Construction of the Belgrade to Bar railway is expected to take up to six years. It will have to be driven through the rugged mountainous terrain of South Serbia and Montenegro. Tunnels will cover about 50 miles, or 16 per cent, of the route, with the longest extending about five miles. The new railway will cut the distance from Belgrade and the grain areas of the Vojvodina to the Adriatic by 84 miles, from Eastern Serbia by 200 miles, from Macedonia and Southwest Serbia by up to 264 miles.

Yugoslav experts estimate that the new railway will in a short time handle about 2,000,000 net tons in the direction of the sea and 1,000,000 net tons in the direction of Belgrade every year. The railway will open up thousands of square miles of wild Balkan country which now has not a single mile of railway and only the roughest of roads.

The reporter, James Stuart, said he cashed the first three dollars without difficulty, making purchases at two department stores and a dime store. All transactions were made at a dollar-for-dollar exchange. After that, he said, he had trouble. A newsstand dealer refused the money. The theatre cashiers referred him to nearby banks. Two Injured

LADYSMITH, Aug. 28—Two persons were injured in a three-car crash here Tuesday afternoon in which about $5,000 worth of vehicle damage was done, R.C.M.P. reported.

Mrs. Laura Keefe, Duncan, suffered a broken leg. She is in Duncan hospital. Pamela Fortye, aged six, daughter of Dr. R. A. Fortye, Victoria, was treated for cuts and discharged.

Police said the cars were driven by Mrs. Keefe and Dr. Fortye, the two most extensively damaged, and John William Mercer, Belmont Park, Colwood.

Blockbusters Hit Korea Power Plants

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 28 (UP)—Navy war planes from three American carriers braved the thickest anti-aircraft fire of the Korean war Wednesday to blast two important North Korean power plants with 2,000-pound bombs.

It was one of the heaviest air attacks of the war on the Communist power supply. It caught the Reds feverishly trying to repair damage inflicted on the plants by previous Allied strikes.

Corsairs, Skyraiders and Pantherjets zoomed down on Chosen 1 and 2 hydro-electric plants in northeast Korea with rockets and one-ton bombs.

HEAVY SCREEN

The carrier pilots said the Communists threw up the heaviest screen of anti-aircraft fire they have seen thus far in the war. However, all U.N. planes returned safely to their carriers.

Anti-aircraft fire was so thick and accurate, the navy said, that pilots were unable to get a clear picture of what damage they inflicted.

Planes from the Essex went in first to hit Chosen 1. Skyraiders, led by Cmdr. W. W. Chick of Coronado, Calif., dropped 2,000-pound blockbusters on the generator building and penstocks. At least one bomb hit the corner of the plant, smashing in the wall. Then the Boxer and Princeton flyers teamed up to hit Chosen 2. Damage was unassessed because of smoke and heavy flak.

Some 222 war planes took off from the three carriers during the day to attack the hydro-electric plants and to blast other Red installations from the battle line northward.

Air force B-26 light bombers took over the night shift, to assault a supply concentration near Sohung in northwestern Korea.

The attack by 15 B-26's came after radio Seoul broadcast a warning to the civilians in the target area to move out. Sohung

What's New at Eaton's

If your nerves twang and twitch every time you hear a tap drip, and if you get the screaming meemies when your garden hose springs a leak, well pick yourself up, dust off your feathers and come and see our Hardware Department! You'll come back with an armload of new chemical and mechanical inventions for patching up everything from leaky tires to shot-nerves.

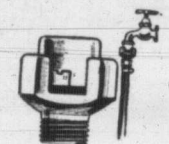

"Sticks to Anything"

This new miracle of the test tubes is called "Seal All" and does just that to plumbing, water pails, tarpaulins, tents, gas tanks, canoes, rubber boots, windshields, radiators . . . see how quickly it mends costume jewellery, bric-a-brac, china, glass, etc. . . "Seal All" will even unite wood, metal and plastics! All this for 49c

"Miracle Tub Caulk"

Tough, rubbery, water and grease resistant . . . just the ticket for filling cracks around fixtures where they have pulled away, for caulking around bathtubs, between window frames and tile or plaster. It leaves just about the whitest, brightest, smoothest finish you could wish for, and it doesn't shrink or crumble out of joint. This quick-drying plastic material sells for 1.29 a tube.

Garden Hose Connector

Remember how wet you would get your hands, and how mud-spattered your trousers would be after a session with the garden hose? Well, this new gadget eliminates the mess . . . comes in two weather-resistant pieces, one to screw on the faucet, the other to screw on the hose . . . both pressure lock to stop leaks. "Hose-on" is made of coloured plastic that resists corroding . . . can also be used for sprinklers, washing machines, etc. 1.00

Safety Flare

There you are, out in the middle of nowhere. Just you and a flat tire. Wouldn't it be wonderful to have a wide area floodlight, a light that would hold securely so both your hands are free, a light that would throw a 1/2-mile red warning light? Of course it would, so we have one that plugs into the cigarette lighter socket on your car, that reaches all parts of your car, with a "magnogrip" that holds securely to all metal parts. Serves as a signal light, flashlight, trunk light . . . and what a boon to campers! Sells for 3.95.

This is a Bottle Opener . . .

it doesn't stop any leaks we know of, but if your nerves are still jumpy you can open up a bottle of "Coke" or something with this opener which is attached to a bar, wall or table. Very efficient, very handy. Comes in red, green, blue, yellow, for 45c.

Prairie Family Seek Missing Sailor Son

FLIN FLON, Man., Aug. 28 (CP)—A Flin Flon couple left Tuesday night for Vancouver in an attempt to trace their 20-year-old son, missing since his ship, the Athabaska, docked in Vancouver early in July.

Stoker Reginald (Reg.) Cutt was returning to Canada after a year in Korea. He was due home on leave, but his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cutt, have had no word from him since his ship docked.

Naval authorities reported that Cutt left the ship for a brief shore leave but failed to report back. His wallet was picked up by Canadian Pacific Railway employees at Vancouver and

U.N. Bombers Level Pyonyang

Aircraft of Four Allies
Make Record 1,403 Sorties

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 29 (AP)—Allied planes in record numbers today pounded Pyonyang and left the reeling North Korean capital wracked in great clouds of smoke and torn by explosions.

Fog Holds Up Search for Lost Airman

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 29 (CP)—Heavy fog along the British Columbia coast delayed the take-off today of R.C.A.F. planes in a search for a United States pilot missing in a one-seater aircraft.

The missing pilot, whose identity has not been revealed, left Port Hardy, B.C., on Vancouver Island, at 10:35 a.m. Thursday for Annette Island, Alaska.

Two R.C.A.F. planes—a Canoe based at Port Hardy and a Lancaster from Sandspit, in the Queen Charlotte Islands—were to have taken off at first light today on a search for the missing plane.

But R.C.A.F. officials said heavy fog from the surface to about 500 feet kept the search planes grounded. However, it is expected that the fog will lift or thin out sufficiently for the planes to begin the search some time during the morning.

Atlantic Storm Said Building Up Intensity

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 29 (AP)—The erratic Atlantic storm developed into a full-fledged hurricane today as it swirled towards the Atlantic coast with increasing speed and intensity.

The weather bureau said the upper Florida east coast, Georgia and South Carolina were in the path of the hurricane.

The weather bureau said Hurricane Able was moving west-northwest about 15 miles an hour, with strongest winds estimated at about 75 miles an hour. Storm warnings were displayed from Vero Beach, Fla., north to Wilmington, N.C.

Four Allied countries sent a record 1,403 sorties (individual flights) against the city in three waves of land and carrier-based fighter-bombers, the United States Air Force and Navy said. The tonnage of bombs dropped was exceeded only by the massive raid of July 11.

Black smoke poured from the factories, supply dumps and troop billets at the outskirts of Pyonyang, forewarned of the raids by radio and leaflets.

A returning United Nations pilot said the city "was blowing up all over."

Planes from three U.S. aircraft carriers off the east coast of Korea flew 210 sorties over the Red capital.

Some 420 planes poured 4,000 gallons of flaming gasoline and 597 tons of high explosives on more than 40 Communist targets during the dawn-to-dusk raids. They sprayed 52,000 rounds of machine-gun bullets on the area, the air force said.

Today's first wave of jet and prop-driven planes battered Communist anti-aircraft defenses, which pilots said threw up a heavy curtain of flak. Other waves concentrated on stockpiles, barracks, industries and airfields used to bolster the Communist war effort.

Pyonyang radio was off the air, and monitors in Tokyo said it still had not come on for its regular broadcasts tonight.

Allied air raids have driven Pyonyang radio from the air waves twice recently. "Once was in June, when a smashing blow at the Suhoi hydro-electric power plant on the Manchurian frontier cut off the capital's power. The second was the big July 11 raid.

South African, South Korean and Australian planes joined U.S. pilots in this fifth attack on the Red capital since Aug. 1.

Campbell, Meister Lead in Canadian Golf Semifinals

WEST VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP)—Willow Bill Campbell was thrashing Sam Urzetta five up today at the end of the first 18 of their 36-hole semi-final match in the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Urzetta, former U.S. champion from Rochester, N.Y., had bags of trouble on the first, went out of bounds on the fifth, rammed into a hedge on the 13th and hooked into the woods on the 18th.

Ed Meister of Cleveland enjoyed a 1 up lead on Larry Bouchey of Inglewood, Calif., at the halfway point in the second semi-final.

No Russian Spy Ring In Montreal—R.C.M.P.

Police Deny Montreal Paper's Assertions; Former Czech Envoy Named One Story Source

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Superintendent George McClellan of the R.C.M.P. today officially denied a Montreal newspaper report alleging the existence of a Russian spy ring in that city.

In a press conference he disclosed that one of the sources of the story published by the Montreal Gazette was Dr. Jiri Mares, former Czechoslovakian consul-general in Montreal who broke with the Communists and decided to seek refuge in Canada.

Dr. Mares himself, in an agitated state, appeared at the press conference and said the story as far as he was aware was "utterly false."

Dr. Mares said one of the reasons for the story was an apparent distortion of statements made to the Gazette reporter, Karl Gerhard, by Dr. Mares and his wife, Juliette.

Dr. Mares also said another reason lay in the fact his wife was under high mental strain and had made statements to Mr. Gerhard which were in themselves exaggerated.

Dr. Mares explained to newspapermen that last Tuesday evening, he invited Mr. Gerhard to his home to talk about the Gazette article toward the resigned Czech consul-general. He explained that he had never been involved in espionage or counter-espionage either in Canada or elsewhere, and neither had his wife.

Dr. Mares said his 36-year-old wife had been in a highly nervous state since he had resigned his Czech position. During the interview Mr. Gerhard had stated that he had noticed a suspicious-looking car outside the Mares' house and this increases Mrs. Mares' nervous tension.

Dr. Mares said his wife told the reporter of an alleged kidnapping last spring when she was taken by two men to the Montreal harbor and detained there for political reasons.

However, Dr. Mares said he himself had believed the story had been exaggerated and although he did not pass this information along to the reporter, he believed it was evident to the newspaperman that the story was not entirely true.

Not forin' anybody into th' old men's home, she sez. Just tearin' their houses down and mentionin' where they can go if they "voluntarily" want a roof over their heads.

View Royal's Board Adamant Zoning Appeal

No Portage Inlet Project Possible

The View Royal Zoning Appeal Board has refused to give permission for construction of the first phase of the $12,000,000 Portage Inlet recreation project.

William E. Porter, board chairman, said today the application for rezoning of certain lands for commercial uses was dismissed "because the board is satisfied the proposed project would depreciate the value of property in the district and adversely affect the area's residential character."

A spokesman for Royal Portage Parks Ltd., proposers of the project, immediately charged that the board is "biased," and that the company will go "to the highest authority" in an effort to get approval of the plans.

Further action along this line must wait the return to the city of J. G. Rutan, counsel for the firm.

The company wanted rezoning of 76 acres in the Portage Inlet area to allow construction of a "luxury resort area," including a hotel, motel, aquatic facilities and many other projects of a recreational nature. This was to be the first phase of the overall project.

Residents loudly protested the project at a View Royal public hearing two weeks ago.

In announcing the board's decision, Mr. Porter noted there was "a total lack of evidence as to the identity of the principals involved or their ability to complete successfully the vast project."

He also said the majority of property owners affected are stringently opposed to the project.

The application for rezoning actually was made by several landowners in the area. Charles E. Craig, architect for Royal Portage Parks Ltd., appeared on their behalf at the hearing.

At one point during the hearing he asked that the hearing be adjourned until backers of the project "declare themselves."

LABOR DAY WEEK-END WEATHER TO BE 'GOOD'

The Labor Day week-end outlook is "good," Victoria's weatherman said today.

Favorable conditions throughout the northwest seem well established, he said, and indicate that present clear skies and mild temperatures might prevail through Monday.

His regular forecast promises clear skies tonight and sunshine Saturday, with temperatures ranging between 48 and 68 degrees.

"Sunday and Monday right now are beyond our regular forecast period," he said, "but a spreading high pressure area will likely maintain present conditions over the holiday."

$200,000 Loss In Langford Fire

Spectacular Blaze Ruins Langford Plant; Volunteer Firemen Praised

A spectacular $200,000 fire Thursday night left Highway Sawmills Ltd. mill at Langford a blackened ruin.

About 80 per cent of the loss is covered by insurance, company officials said today.

Flames from the blaze in the busy Langford business district threatened wider disaster for a time, but volunteer firemen from three areas, and sailor fire fighters from Esquimalt, saved nearby buildings and homes.

The mill was owned by Pirie Singh and his son, Hurdit.

The fire's heat was so intense crews had to be kept on the job throughout the night, and the ruins were still smoldering this morning.

The blaze, which is believed to have broken out in the filing room, quickly engulfed the mill. It was first noticed at 7:25 p.m.

INVESTIGATION
The fire is to be investigated by a representative of the B.C. fire marshal's office, Vancouver.

At a training practice not more than 100 yards from the scene at the time, the Langford Volunteer Fire Fighting Department was quickly on the spot. This unit is in charge of Chief Rod Byles, Peatt Road.

Coolwood department volunteers led by Chief Walter Gwyer, the View Royal Brigade led by Al Beasley, the R.C.N. unit from H.M.C. Dockyard in charge of Deputy Chief Lieut. G. R. Lay and Lieut. A. Hope, and a B.C. Forest Service suppression crew under Ranger Jack Greenhouse joined in the fight.

There were 49 men on the job in all.

The fighters, realizing that the mill was a hopeless loss, concentrated their efforts on saving adjoining buildings by dousing them with water.

"They did a splendid job," said Roy Leachman, mill foreman.

HOME DAMAGED
Only house badly damaged by the flames was that of Axel Olson, close to the west side of the mill. It is estimated that about $2,000 damage was done. Mr. Olson has partial insurance coverage.

"My son (Alf) and I were in the kitchen having a cup of tea when we heard an 'explosive-type' sound. Looking out the window we saw flames shoot up and I would say that not many seconds passed before the whole mill was a mass of fire," said Mr. Olson.

Flames shot hundreds of feet into the air during the height of the blaze. Crowds were attracted to the scene.

Union Membership Will Vote on New Proposal

Victoria contractors today made striking city carpenters a "take it or leave it" offer of $2 per hour in an effort to end the 74-day work stoppage in the city.

The offer was made at a meeting arranged by the Labor Relations Board.

Officials of Local 1598 of the carpenters' union said at the conclusion of the meeting that the membership would be asked to vote on the offer.

The union's strike committee, however, made it clear it would not recommend the men vote in favor of the $2 rate.

Previous to the strike June 17 carpenters in Victoria had been paid $1.75 per hour. They asked for $2.50, then limited their demands to $2.10 and other benefits recommended by a conciliation board majority report. Contractors offered $1.90.

"This offer is made solely for the purpose of settlement," said a statement issued by Victoria Builders' Exchange Ltd., contractors' organization.

"It is not a bargaining offer, and is not subject to further negotiation."

The exchange also sought to limit the control it claims the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners holds over the employees.

HIRING AND FIRING
The statement continued:

"The Exchange is prepared to sign last year's agreement incorporating the 25 cent wage increase, but only on condition that there is a satisfactory revision of the union shop clause. The union has recently interpreted this clause as giving it the power to control the hiring and firing of employees, through its right to grant, or refuse to grant, membership in the union. The contractors will not accept these conditions."

Asked by representatives of the Exchange to give a decision on permitting work on Oak Bay Junior High School, members of the union's negotiating committee said the membership would be allowed to decide the matter at its wage vote meeting.

W. J. Hamilton, exchange president, said 520 students would be affected by the school remaining closed, and approximately another 500 would be inconvenienced through use of the shift system made necessary by present lack of accommodation.

UNION REPLY
In reply, a statement from the union's strike committee, said:

"What has come to our mind is, are the contractors sincere in their sudden welfare of the school children or are they doing this for business and economic purposes."

"In our opinion the school children would rather put up with the inconvenience of double shifting rather than be used as a weapon to force their fathers to accept sub-standard wages and working conditions."

"However, we will give the matter due consideration, if and when we are approached by school authorities."

Kellock Heads Railway-Union Wage Talks

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Mr. Justice Roy L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada has been chosen chairman of the federal conciliation board in the rail-wage dispute, it was announced today.

Promoted to acting commodore are:

Capt. B. R. Spencer, 45, native of Port Alberni, command technical officer, command engineer officer and superintendent of the dockyard here;

Pet Cat's Nails Drawn, Throat Slashed By Unknown Sadist

By R. E. PORTER

A sadistic sub-human has committed one of the most horrible and unthinkable acts of cruelty ever to be suffered by an animal in this area.

The victim was "Snookie," a quiet, friendly, harmless 5-year-old cat.

Snookie made his painful way back to his home in the Fairfield district a few hours after being let out Friday evening.

And here is what had been done to him:

His four paws had been tightly bound with wire;

His claws—every one of them—were pulled out;

His back was deeply slashed with a knife;

His throat was cut.

Snookie collapsed in a bloody heap on the doorstep of his horrified owner, Madame Annette Vivenot, an elderly widow who lives at 1138 Oxford.

She had no choice but to call the S.P.C.A. and have Snookie put out of his pain as quickly as possible.

And it is hard to imagine how terrible that pain must have been.

Today, Madame Vivenot is at complete loss to explain the horrible act.

"I was very fond of Snookie... I bought him when he was a kitten," she said.

"I've never had any trouble with the children in this neighborhood... I just can't understand it."

In a letter to this paper she said:

"An individual who commits such an act of unspeakable cruelty is a danger to the neighborhood."

She warns that some day "the victim might be a child."

EVERYWHEREGRIEF—In Salem, Mass., a soldier, speeding toward his tragedy-filled Nebraska home, stepped ashore here today from a Coast Guard mercy plane.

The soldier, Sgt. Charles R. Buggy, was flown by the Coast Guard from the military transport Alexander Patch, 500 miles at sea, after an earlier rescue plane was disabled in a collision with one of the transport's lifeboats.

Buggy is en route home on an emergency leave granted when polio killed one of his two children. The other is gravely ill with the disease, and Buggy's wife is awaiting critical surgery for a spine ailment.

CURFEW—In Heidelberg, Germany, the United States army today told enlisted men in the European command that they must be "off the streets and out of public places" by midnight every week night.

The curfew is extended to 1 a.m. Saturday nights and the nights before holidays. It ends at 6 a.m. daily.

The army gave no immediate explanation for the curfew, but German civilians have for a long time pressed for greater control of servicemen in their liberty hours, blaming them for brawls and in some cases more serious crimes.

British army personnel already are governed by similar regulations.

COMPARISON—Nearly seven times more Americans were killed in automobile accidents than in the Korean fighting during the first seven months of this year, the National Safety Council reported today.

The Korean dead in that period totaled less than 3,000. The United States traffic death toll was 20,000.

DISCOVERY—The discovery of what may be one of the world's largest volcanic and almost pure sulphur deposits was reported in Mexico City today by official sources.

The deposit is located in the crater of a volcanic hill on Socorro Island in the Revilla Gigedo group 370 miles off the west Mexican Pacific coast.

Joseph Wekstein, who shares a federal reserve concession, said he expected the delivery of 1,000 tons of ore and 200 tons of refined sulphur a day nine months after mining operations begin.

Present production of sulphur in Mexico is less than 200 tons a day.

ASYLUM—In Linz, Austria, four Yugoslav wrestlers—members of a 12-man team which competed last Saturday—were reported today to have asked for political asylum.

United States sources said the request had been granted. Two members stayed behind when the team left for home Monday. Two others, including the president of the club, returned to Linz Wednesday.

Bennett Called
'Usurper' by
C.C.F. Member

Premier W. A. C. Bennett is usurping the rights of the Legislature and making a mockery of parliamentary government, Frank Snowsall, provincial C.C.F. organizer and Saanich M.L.A., said Thursday.

He was commenting on the premier's apparent intention to refrain from meeting the Legislature this year.

"It's completely valueless to have elected members to represent the various ridings unless there is a session of the Legislature in which those members can function," said Mr. Snowsall.

By not calling a session, Mr. Bennett is saying in effect: "I can govern this province myself. There's no need to refer my decisions to the Legislature," Mr. Snowsall contended.

"That's just one more step towards discrediting and abolishing parliamentary government," he added.

City Hospital Discourages
All But Evening Visitors

While there is no ban on visiting patients in public wards in the afternoon, Royal Jubilee Hospital officials said today they are hoping visitors will make visits in the evenings only.

The policy discouraging afternoon visits was instituted a month ago after complaints were received that the treatment of patients was being interfered with in public wards by crowded conditions during the afternoon period, it was explained.

Since then there has been a cut down of day visits by 50 per cent, hospital officials said, and the drop in afternoon visits has proven beneficial to both patients and staff.

"The Store Where Things Are Different"

No Prosecution
Of Union MenOttawa Says Manitoba Must Take Any Action in Combines Charge

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson announced today no prosecution will be lodged under a combines report charging 13 members of a Winnipeg trade union with violating the Combines Act.

Combines Commissioner T. D. McDonald in a report to the minister July 18, had taxed officials of the Winnipeg Local No. 1 of the Canadian Bakery Workers' Union (C.B.W.) with breaking the Combines Act by conspiring to hold up bread prices.

Mr. Garson said today the federal government, after the issue has been put up to it by the Manitoba attorney-general's department, had decided not to prosecute.

SHUT OFF DELIVERIES

The finding of the combines commissioner, which set up a Canadian precedent by holding union members guilty of engaging in an illegal combine, was that executives of the union violated the act by ordering members to shut off bread deliveries to a Winnipeg retail grocery chain that had cut prices.

The contention of the union was that it was just engaging in permissible "reasonable protection" measures for its members' earnings, but the commissioner threw out this claim.

Today, a justice department statement said Mr. Garson had put the question of prosecution up to the Manitoba attorney-general, in view of the fact that the alleged offense was confined to one province.

The attorney-general had replied that the "balance of convenience" in reaching a decision lay with the federal government. However, the attorney-general had added that he would go into the matter further if it appeared to the federal authorities that the case appeared to be "one in which quite clearly the province should act, rather than the federal government."

The justice department statement said the minister felt consideration of the evidence lent support to the union views that:

1. The men named by the combines commissioner—all deliverymen except one—had not realized their actions contravened the statute.

2. "The evidence did not indicate a deliberate intention to contravene the act."

A further circumstance, it said, was the fact that the union's national organization had sent out a directive telling local bodies to pay strict observance to the Combines Act and refrain from any similar action.

"The minister felt that this action would assist materially in clarifying any misunderstandings as to the application of the act," the statement added.

USEFUL PURPOSE

It also said the investigation had served a "most useful purpose"—apparently in circumscribing the privileges of unions in such cases—and, in all the circumstance, it was not felt that any further useful purpose would be served by a prosecution against the Winnipeg union members.

Mr. Garson's statement added, wished to emphasize that the decision of his department applies only to the present case.

"In view of the publicity which the matter has received, the statement said, 'the same considerations against prosecution would not apply in a future like case.'"

In this case, the alleged offence occurred in 1951. On such a charge, penalties range up to two years in jail.

Specifically, the union officers were charged by the combines commissioner, with trying to knock out price competition on bread for a period. Their general contention was that lowered bread prices would reduce the earnings of bread deliverymen. They held they were allowed, under the Combines Act, to take measures to protect earnings.

The union boycott was directed against Jewel Fine Foods Ltd., which had dropped prices to match those of a rival chain. When this was done, the union ordered its driver-salesmen not to bring that company bread from any one of the five big baking companies in the area.

In active business life he was a vice-president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, president of Eastern Trust Company, Eastern Utilities Ltd. and the Halifax Insurance Company, and a director of Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd.

A native of Old' Barns, Colchester County, Fleming Blanchard McCurdy was born Feb. 17, 1875, the eighth son of the late James and Amelia McCurdy.

He was elected as Conservative Unionist member of parliament in 1911.

Five years later he was named parliamentary secretary of the militia and defense department and in 1918 took over the same post in the newly-created department of soldiers' civil re-establishments.

He was re-elected by acclamation in 1917 as a member for Colchester and re-elected in a by-election in 1920. Then he was named a Privy Councillor and appointed public works minister. He was defeated in 1921 and never re-entered public life.

EGYPTIAN TEAM MAKES CHANNEL SWIM ATTEMPT

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 29 (Reuters)—The English Channel was full of Egyptians today, all swimming manfully in the direction of France.

Six of them formed a relay team and took turns at churning their way across the 10-mile gap. They are trying to beat their record of 11 hours, 11 minutes.

Another Egyptian, said Al Arabi, 36, is trying to make the crossing solo. He set out a few minutes behind Dr. George Brewster, 61, a Londoner who is making his 16th attempt to swim the tide-ripped Channel.

The Egyptian team was led by Hassan Abd-El-Rehim, 45, who has made the swim four times, and Abdel Monem Abdu, 28, who made a solo crossing Aug. 12.

The swimmers had a clear, calm day.

R.C.M.P. detachment at Colwood, called in all hands "and did a splendid job of recruiting traffic," commended Fire Chief Bayles.

Seven Langford department volunteers, including juniors Robin Robertson, Don Elmore, both 16, and Ian Freemantle, stayed on the scene during the night to play water on the smoldering ruins.

Chief Bayles denied a report that there was a shortage of water.

"We had plenty," he said. "An offer of help from the Victoria fire department was declined as there were sufficient men on the job."

Residents of the area brought garden hoses into play to help in the wetting-down process.

Buttle Lake Dam Forecast Being Failure

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP)—A charge that the proposed Buttle Lake power dam, in central Vancouver Island, will be a failure 10 years after it is built, has been made here by Hon. H. H. Stevens, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Speaking before the Vancouver Kiwanis Club Thursday the former federal minister of trade and commerce said "if they build this dam at Buttle Lake on hundreds of feet of glacial deposit, it will be a disastrous experience in connection with the dam."

Mr. Stevens said members of the B.C. Power Commission, which is planning the Buttle Lake dam, are privately worried about the selected site for the Amberson Dam to be built by extended fill-in over the glacial formation.

He said there was a better site with the same watershed for the dam on upper Campbell Lake, where the Strathcona Park site would not be damaged.

Mr. Stevens, who is also president of the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League, charged that the Power Commission did not make an engineering investigation of the dam site.

Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining agents for the mill operators, has offered 5½ cents per hour across the board.

Egypt's Fuad To Be Educated in Own Country

CAIRO, Aug. 29 (Reuters)—Prime Minister Ali Maher announced today that the infant King Ahmed Fuad II will be educated in Egypt so that he will grow up among his people.

"The return of King Fuad is of vital importance. He must learn to understand and love the people he will one day rule," the announcement said.

The seven-month-old king now is at Capri, Italy, with his parents, former King Farouk and former Queen Narriman. Farouk was forced into exile by Gen. Mohammed Naguib in a coup that established Maher as premier.

Under Islamic law, Fuad will remain with his mother until he reaches the age of seven.

Today's announcement indicates a break with the past. Most Middle East sovereigns receive a western education. Though Farouk remained in Egypt until he was 15, his education was in the hands of an English tutor. At 15 he was sent to England to prepare for his entry into the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich, near London.

The death of his father, King Ahmed Fuad I, in April, 1936, intervened and Farouk returned to Egypt at the age of 16 to be proclaimed king.

Meanwhile Naguib, who led the July coup with the declared

The House Should Meet

AS OUTLINED IN THE TIMES A few days ago by Mr. Leslie Fox, the most experienced political reporter in British Columbia, the peculiar circumstances of the Bennett government admit of only one conclusion—the legislature should meet without delay.

Premier Bennett seems to be operating from day to day on the assumption which he laid down when he took office—that he heads a government duly elected and with all the powers of government. In a narrow sense he is right, in a broader sense wrong.

He has been properly called by the Lieutenant-Governor to form an administration. He is entitled to enforce the law, to do all the routine acts of government. But since he has no majority in the legislature and does not know whether the legislature will support him or vote him out, he has no mandate to introduce any large new policy into the state and least of all has he any right to tamper with the existing statutes as he is doing in his refusal to enforce the payment of hospital insurance premiums.

Mr. Bennett's position is made still more complicated by the fact that his two leading ministers, the minister of finance and the attorney-general, are not members of the legislature, are carrying great powers without any consent of the voters.

There is no constitutional reason, of course, why non-elected men should not be appointed to the cabinet. This has been done over and over again in Canada and other countries based on the British constitutional system. But it is essential that such men shall secure the endorsement of the voters and seats in the legislature without delay.

Here, as Mr. Fox observes, the reasoning of Mr. Bennett becomes obscure and the whole future of the government doubtful. Mr. Bennett says he will have a fully-elected cabinet by the time he meets the legislature, but adds that this does not necessarily mean that he will call by-elections to provide seats for his non-elected colleagues. That statement has led to the belief, so far only speculative, that Mr. Bennett is planning a general election before the legislature meets again.

The first point to understand in this confused and unique situation is that Mr. Bennett has absolutely no right to secure a dissolution of the legislature and an election before he has met the legislature. On that the constitutional practice is quite clear and cannot be altered to suit the convenience of the government.

The Lieutenant-Governor, on the advice of his former prime minister, called on Mr. Bennett to take office but it was a very close decision between him and Mr. Winch. It was based not on the exact number of Social Credit and C.C.F. members in the new legislature but on the broad assumption that Mr. Bennett would be more likely than Mr. Winch to carry a vote of confidence.

This decision was proper but it required that Mr. Bennett should test his position in the legislature as soon as possible. If Mr. Bennett could take office, with no assured majority, then ask the Lieutenant-Governor to dissolve the legislature and call a new election, an intolerable precedent would be established. Under such a formula any government lacking a majority in the legislature could keep itself perpetually in office by calling repeated elections.

That very point was argued and established beyond question in the great Canadian constitutional debate of 1926 when Mr. MacKenzie King governed with a minority in Parliament for some six months. He did not attempt to secure a dissolution after the 1925 election before he met Parliament, and was refused it after he had carried many votes of confidence.

As he said then, he could not have complained at the Governor General's refusal to grant him a dissolution if someone else could have formed a government and secured Parliament's approval. Mr. King resigned but was rejected by Parliament and Mr. King won the subsequent election.

The Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia would be well within his rights to refuse Mr. Bennett a dissolution before the legislature met to decide whether it had confidence in Mr. Bennett or not. If Mr. Bennett fears to meet the legislature the Lieutenant-Governor could properly call on Mr. Winch and give him the chance to secure a vote of confidence. And it is highly probable that Mr. Winch would secure such a vote as most of the legislature does not desire an election now.

If Mr. Bennett desires an election now he is certainly the only party leader who does desire it. The legislature, we believe, wishes to get on with its business and undoubtedly will keep Mr. Bennett in office, for some time anyway, provided his government does not introduce some basic policy like the destruction of the hospital insurance scheme which the C.C.F. and Liberal members could not accept.

But this situation cannot be clarified, the right of the government to govern in the full sense cannot be established until the legislature meets and expresses its confidence or lack of confidence in the government. Meanwhile an election is unthinkable in a constitutional sense and quite unnecessary in a practical sense.

Mr. Bennett should meet the legislature at the earliest possible moment and if he is unwilling to do so should recommend a successor to the Lieutenant-Governor. By leaving the impression that he may try to call an election instead of meeting the legislature he is causing unnecessary confusion and weakening himself when, we believe, the people, through the legislature, are anxious for him to be equipped with full power and to govern by public consent.

Safety in the Air Ports

IN A LETTER TO THE TIMES MR. G. R. McGregor, the able president of the Trans-Canada Air Lines, replies to two articles on aviation written on this page recently by Mr. Stuart Keate, The Times publisher. When Mr. Keate returns to the city from a vacation he may care to discuss Mr. McGregor's letter more fully. Meanwhile Mr. McGregor has raised an interesting and important question involving the safety of air travel in Canada.

He says that in the incident mentioned by Mr. Keate (who was a T.C.A. passenger at the time) the aircraft overran the Saakatoon air strip because "it failed to stop on the runway due to the fact that a sudden wind shift occurred virtually at the moment of the touchdown. Major changes in wind direction," Mr. McGregor adds, "are not unusual in the vicinity of electrical storms. It is, happily, unusual for a wind shift to occur at a time in the landing sequence when it would be unwise to alter the decision to land, but it is for these unusual eventualities that airport runways, almost without exception, are provided with unpaired 'over-run' extensions designated as such on airport plans."

After the plane overran the paved airstrip into unpaired ground, says Mr. McGregor, it was examined and found to show no mechanical fault and subsequently flew to Vancouver without adjustments of any kind.

"Examination of the runways showed over 4,000 feet of wheel skid marks on the runway paving and examination of the airport wind record showed a wind change at the time of landing of from 15 miles per hour, 40 degrees off the runway, to 15 miles per hour, 180 degrees off the runway. On a dry runway it is probable that the aircraft could have been stopped on the paved area, even with this severe tail wind condition. On a wet runway the over-run was almost inevitable and reflects no discredit on the aircraft or its personnel, or the personnel in charge of the airport."

sonnel, or the personnel in charge of the airport."

It is satisfactory to note that the T.C.A. experts evidently studied every detail of the Saskatoon landing and are convinced that it was not the fault of its pilots, of its plane or of the airport officials. Mr. Keate did not suggest anything of the sort. He was only interested to know why such a landing could occur on a modern Canadian airport.

It now appears that the over-run was due solely to a change in wind at the time of landing and to a wet paved strip on which the plane skidded for nearly a mile. And wind changes, Mr. McGregor says, are "not unusual in the vicinity of electrical storms."

The layman will take it from this that similar conditions might occur again on a wet airstrip during an electrical storm. The question thus raised is whether the Saskatoon airport and perhaps others should be equipped with longer paved runways to accommodate planes under these conditions, to make sure that even with a suddenly changing wind they will have plenty of pavement, beyond the length required under normal conditions.

This is a question which the federal aviation authorities at Ottawa should carefully consider. Through the skill of the T.C.A. pilot the plane was landed at Saskatoon and over-ran the paved strip without the least damage, despite the unfavorable wind conditions and the wet pavement. Can it be safely assumed that all landings under such conditions could be executed with assured safety? Would it not be wise to make sure that all our main airports have enough paved runway to accommodate any plane under any conditions?

That, we take it, is not the responsibility of the T.C.A., whose safety record is the best in the world. It is the responsibility of the government and we hope it will look into the Saskatoon incident without delay.

Milk Ho! or, What's in a Name?

IT SHOULD OCCASION LITTLE SURPRISE that the official regulations for choosing the Prettiest Milkmaid of 1932 at the Ancester, Ont., fair next month specify that the contestants need not know how to milk. It has become a commonplace of our day and age that titles are for the most part hollow and meaningless.

Thus, for every aspirant to the title of Prettiest Milkmaid who can't milk, there is a legislative candidate who does not know how to legislate. For every beauty queen contestant whose looks are kept in her vanity case there is a would-be demagogue whose brains are in his vest pocket along with his speech notes. For every actress who can't act, there is a leader who can't lead.

We have come to expect this. The Prettiest Milkmaid will strip to a bathing suit and pose with the milk pail.

But some homely looking fellow out in the barn must strip Bossy to fill it. The Prettiest This and the Prettiest That are the trade marks of our times. No new car, jet plane, sausage factory, rose festival or garbage scow can be released to its work in the world until it has been photographed with a Prettiest Girl at the controls. No candidate is really elected, no bridge opened, no new brand of beans officially launched, until the ever-smiling Prettiest has been snapped kissing, crossing or tasting it, respectively.

Life would be much duller without all this, no doubt, but on bad days we sometimes toy with the thought of the prettiest Prettiest of all lining up beside that other highest product of our civilization, the atomic bomb, and posing—with a big smile, of course—just a little too long.

BOB RUARK SAYS:

The Cousins Have It Cornered

NEW YORK — You may knock the British for a great many things, but generally speaking when they sit down to whump up a movie it comes out adult and worthy of watching by other than people who think that Martin and Lewis are hysterical and that Abbott and Costello constitute subtlety.

The most fascinating suspense since the early Alfred Hitchcock efforts is a thing called "Clouded Yellow," which had me off the seat and sore in need of plasma most of the way, and was gently humorous as only the British can do it and tender in spots, besides. We may as well give up on mixtures of humor and terror and wry underplaying, here in the U.S. The cousins across the way have got it cornered.

Ruark

I THOUGHT it impossible for anybody, too, to confect a believable, African picture that actually dealt with game and terrain and problems, but the British have done it again with a new one called "The Ivory Hunters," a simple story devoid of blood and thunder and tumultuous heroines whose hair remains unmussed throughout elephant charges and cannibal attacks.

The people who thrive on contrived situations won't like it, and the people who admire painted donkeys, got up as zebras, making phony charges, as in "King Solomon's Mines," won't like it. But people who like color that isn't glary and the best animal photography I can remember will see it twice or more. The thing opened the other day with no heraldry to speak of. The standing line at the box office was a block long.

MY INTEREST in the film was sort of personal, since one of the professional hunters who kept the beasts from eating the talent is a friend of mine. Young Tony Dyer of Kenya was one of the double-rifle toters who stood guard over the photographers and the actors while they agitated the fauna on a game reserve for enough days to make all the animals angry. Protection of photographers is the toughest kind of body-guarding for a white hunter, because you have to keep the creatures in a state of perpetual commotion while the guy with the camera gets his light right and his lenses adjusted.

POOR old Dyer and Mr. Bunny Sombody, whose name I forget, had a six-day chore of keeping a herd of elephants stirred up to riotous wrath. There were over 200 elephants in the herd, and the photography was close, and Tony told me that he went through the last couple of days with a bottle of brandy in one hand and the .470 Rigby double in the other.

"I have never been so nervous in my life," said the weedy protector of the poor, whose native name is Tall, Thin, and Useless. "We are shooting this picture in a reserve, and they ask naughty questions of you if you kill animals in a reserve, and between agitating the elephants and teasing the rhinos I wound up a nervous wreck in the bloom of youth."

DYER had to shoot one elephant, an infuriated old one-tusked bull who broke off from the herd and lit out after Tony and his camera-grinding friend. The elephant picked up 100 yards on the pair as they took off over the sands, and when Dyer finally turned to shoot him, the old bull's trunk was grasping at Dyer.

Tall, Thin and Useless stopped short, spun, and shot the elephant through the eye, or some such. When they measured the distance, the dead elephant's last track was nine yards away from where Dyer stood. The photographer, I might say, kept taking pictures throughout the crisis. Then they both went back to camp and shook and shivered.

I DIGRESSED for a few hundred words, but what I was going to say was that it is possible to make a movie without really soiling the intelligence of people who know something of what they're seeing. "Ivory Hunters" was a delight in that respect, and I'm sure glad that big bull didn't trample old Tony. He has had enough trouble from buffaloes and leopards, already. He's weary of being trod on.

Flying Uniforms

Toronto Globe and Mail

THE flying saucers may or may not be real, but the flying uniforms are. Air travelers report that increasing numbers of army, navy and air force officers are using Canada's commercial planes; generally, it may be assumed, at public expense. One Trans-Canada Airlines plane, which left Winnipeg east-bound on Sunday night, carried no fewer than nineteen of them.

During the war, such phenomena were accepted; though even then, mutterings were heard among the groundlings who toiled along in the day coach or sweated it out on the bus.

But our present situation, it seems difficult to understand why so many officers (mostly, we suspect, of the desk variety) should be zooming back and forth across the country. Are they really in that much of a hurry? Would it really be so disastrous if they took the time to go by train?

The average taxpayer has no objection to paying for guns, tanks and ships. But he derives something less than pleasure from the thought that the money taken from him in the name of national defense is being used to provide paper-work officers with costly junkets.

Perched on a hard seat in a wooden coach, with one child pouring pop down the back of his neck, another spitting orange pips in his face, and voracious flies coming at him from every direction, he may be forgiven for pronouncing a silent malediction as the silver plane flashes overhead, carrying its cargo of brass.

Studying Those Flying Discs

As Our Readers See It

SMOKE SIGNAL

If and when the Maquinna ceases to carry West Coast mail, and we have taken the first step toward giving the country back to the Indians, we might be able to persuade the said Indians to act as mail carriers.

Smoke signals being somewhat impractical because of fog, rain, etc., the old reliable canoe, not needing expensive boilers, could be pressed into service. This would, of course, attract many tourists, who would be delighted with the quaint old English atmosphere provided by mail-laden canoes propelled by Indians, in full regalia, of course.

Perhaps we could erect grandstands along the coast to accommodate the sightseers, thus paying for the new mail service.

Of course, we would have to build a road for the visitors' cars and just incidentally this might please those West Coast residents who have been asking for something of the kind for a long time. Why? I dunno!

"LAURIE."

TIRE STORY

I was interested in a news item in your paper recently about a raft having thousands of ping-pong balls to keep it afloat, and upon which someone proposed to take a trip.

It reminded me of a bicycle tire which was put on the market near the end of the 19th century. Instead of an inner tube it had rubber balls in the rim with an outer cover to keep them in place. Each ball had a small hole in it, and if the ball was squeezed and the air came out it would immediately be filled again.

The idea was that if the tire was punctured it would fill again without the trouble there would be with an inner tube.

I was an attendant at a bicycle show in Leeds at the time and a man came and gave an order for a new bicycle with "Stubbs" tires, as they were called. The salesman tried to persuade him to have the ordinary tires with inner tubes, but in vain.

The machine was made according to orders and the buyer set off for his home in Otley, a few miles from Leeds.

All went well until he came to Otley Chiven, which runs down hill to the town. The speed of the bicycle and the weight of the man compressed the tires so much that the outer cover came off and the balls ran in all directions. The bicycle was back at the shop the next day, and that was the last I heard of the "Stubbs" tire.

(MRS.) BEATRICE LANGLEY, Scott Street.

"PERFECT GUIDE"

Probably the reason so many people don't read the Bible is because they think it is a religious book. On the contrary, it is estimated that only one-seventh, or less, is devoted to religious doctrine. It deals with all the sciences, nature in its multiple forms, and is historically true. It is the perfect guide for government of any age and under any circumstances.

The decline in Bible-reading is partly due, I suppose, to these so-called higher intellectuals who make it a book of mystery with the idea that ordinary folk haven't the brains to interpret it for themselves. Nonsense. It is a book crammed full of the very problems which all people face every day, be it in the home, office, farm or factory, and gives their solution. It is the world's best manual for the politician. Let him read the 38th, 39th and 41st Chapters of the Book of Job. There he will find some of the everyday facts of life that all the sophistry and pressure-cooker methods of the dictators cannot alter.

One writer declares—"The Englishman never realized so completely as did the old Bible-reading Scot how near the Bible came to his heart and hope. That gave the Scot his sense of confident superiority, and there was certainly nothing irreverent or incongruous in his notion that he personally was on terms of shaking hands with God. After all, true religion is nothing more than ability to meet God on such a footing. Why don't people nowadays read the Bible as did these old Scotsmen—consistently and believably? It is the world's most wonderful book."

Shoe On The Other Foot

Ottawa Citizen

MANY Canadians probably can't remember when oxfords or pumps weren't standard footwear. Yet according to an article in the current issue of Foreign Trade, the Canadian shoe industry has seen revolutionary changes in construction, style and material during its lifetime of nearly a century.

Until about 1865, shoes were made on only one last and could be worn on either foot. In 1880, half sizes were introduced, and five years later, rubber heels. It was 1898 before the first pair of oxfords appeared on North American streets.

Those familiar features of ladies' shoes—the sling back, wedge heel, open toe and platform sole—all are relatively recent innovations. As late as 1910, women shoppers unhappily had no difficulty in choosing shoes, for only high-buttoned or laced boots or shoes in calf, pat leather or kid were available in most stores.

The discovery during the last decade of synthetics suitable for soles as well as uppers is largely responsible for the transformation of shoe store windows into the beguilingly bright displays they now are.

Passing the Platform Test

By JOSEPH ALSOP from New York

HARDENED political reporters, when listening to political speeches, have a probably foolish tendency to study the manner instead of weighing the matter. Aging dramatic critics, have the same trouble—they have already seen too many plays for their own good, and they tend to take the drama for granted and give their chief attention to the acting.

The fact remains that in politics, communication is the first requirement for success. You can have the best ideas and the most appealing program imaginable. But you will get nowhere if you cannot explain the ideas and put the program over. Judged in these bleak, practical terms, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's American Legion speech—the true opening gun in his battle for the Presidency—was a curiously mixed performance.

What one wanted to learn, of course, was whether Eisenhower had really hit his stride. Here was a man who could, in the old days, truly electrify an audience. Sometimes he wobbled to say. Sometimes he would be dealing only in the pleasing generalities about country, home and mother, which army public relations officers love to put in the mouths of their masters. But whatever he had to say, Gen. Eisenhower rarely failed to grip and dominate his audience.

Candidate Eisenhower is not quite the same. He had done his own speech-writing for the American Legion meeting, and the advance copies showed that he had written a speech with meat and power in it. He strode onto the platform in the convention hall looking every inch the image that America has of him. His mere physical presence—his look of being a big man, at once strong and broad-gauge—brought the waiting legionnaires to their feet in a storm of cheers.

But when the cheering died and he began to speak, he somehow appeared shackled. He has never had the practiced political orator's trick of building up climaxes and drawing out applause. But now he almost seemed to throw his points away. It was an effort for him, one felt; it was a necessary duty rather than a pleasure, to be there and to tell his story.

CROWD RESPONDED

Occasionally he would lose himself, for a paragraph or two, in what he had to say; and you could feel the crowd beginning to respond and glow. But then he would look worried and ill at ease again; and the response would die away.

The speech was not a failure, by any means. It told its story of an America exposed to terrible perils; and it made its appeal, for an America strong and united, capable of defying any threat. It conveyed Eisenhower's innate largeness and simplicity. It was almost reassuring, just because it was so unartificial. But none the less, the fact had to be faced—this speech did not grip or dominate or really electrify an audience that was visibly waiting and hoping to be swept off its feet.

One saw, of course, the reasons for Eisenhower's uneasiness on the platform. When he spoke in uniform, it was a brilliant but amateur performance—a mere interruption in a quite different career. But now he was suddenly a professional, with everything depending on how he performed.

Then, too, he was and is a man whose greatest power flows from his sincerity. Yet in these last weeks he has been pulled and hauled from dawn till dusk.

But if he can stick to the line he has chosen—if he can resist the temptation to win easy cheers by telling the extremist minority what they want to hear—Dwight Eisenhower can become a formidable campaigner between now and election day.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"ONE," said the Elevator Man, "of the greatest and never-ending pastimes of some intellectual folks is deciding what various literary gems mean by what they wrote. They'll take a poem, for instance, and tear it to pieces, working out what this word meant and that phrase, how this reference goes back to something that happened in the writer's childhood and that one points to a girl he used to know. And this word doesn't mean what it seems to, of course, you have to read three of his other books to understand it. Well, a lot of that is all right. And it is quite a bit of interest to a poem to know what the fellow was talking about. But surely, now and then, he must have put in a word just because he liked the sound of it, or because it rhymed and he couldn't think of a better one. When the chap who's reading the poem begins to put more into it than the poet did, it's time to call a halt. Let him go and write his own poem—if he can. It reminds you of a fellow who can't box getting rich as the manager of a fellow who can. Lower main!"

"Well," said the Elevator Man, "I see where the German Communists have taken over Shakespeare. They decided that he really was a forerunner of Marx and his job was to ridicule the downfall of the feudal system with such figures as Falstaff, and put ideological meaning into all his plays. I guess that would be news to Shakespeare. He didn't know he was working for the Kremlin 300 years before the Kremlin was invented. And good as he was at drawing characters, he never could have dreamed up so improbable a figure as a real Communist. When he asked, 'Or have we eaten of the insane root that takes the reason prisoner?' he was thinking of witches, not dictators. Going up!"

"It's so easy," said the Elevator Man, "to misunderstand written things. Take that young fellow who was having a holiday in Italy and wrote back to his fiancée. 'Having a wonderful time. Florence is delightful.' And he got a quick answer: 'Don't hurry back. I'm having a fine time with Harry.'"

Alderman Won't Support 'Snob Hill' Plan

Ald. Robert MacMillan spoke out in City Council Thursday against attempts to preserve Victoria's Rockland Avenue district as a "Snob Hill."

The youthful alderman voiced his opinions after B. Russell Ker had appeared personally before council members, asking that they rescind a motion passed at their previous meeting, allowing premises at 840 Pemberton Road to be converted as a nursing home.

Col. Ker, leader in a fight to keep Rockland Avenue strictly residential and free from small apartments and boarding houses, presented a petition bearing signatures of 40 Rockland property owners, objecting to the nursing home.

Ald. MacMillan demanded of Mr. Ker if the petitioners were seeking special protection.

The alderman said: "So far as I'm concerned this business of protecting Rockland Avenue is like flogging a dead horse. Rockland Avenue area already is depreciated. There are boarding houses there and there are nursing homes."

"I say it's not City Council's place to set it aside as a Nob Hill, or Snob Hill if you want to call it that."

"You can call it that if you like," Mr. Ker retorted.

The petitioner held the City Council was trying to slip something over on the Rockland Avenue people by not telling anyone of the proposed nursing home.

"The people there were not consulted to see if there would be any objection," he said. It was only by chance I heard about it.

It would have gone ahead undetected had I not heard.

"It's not that I'm against nursing homes—they are very necessary—and so are boarding houses. But we should surely protect our own rights if we are to pay the highest taxes in the city."

He argued property values in the district would surely be affected by establishing a nursing home there, and threatened that he would ask for a complete re-assessment of Rockland properties if the council insisted on letting the nursing home become established.

Although Ald. Waldo Skillings and Ald. William Pinfold were in favor of rescinding the motion of the previous meeting, other councillors backed Mayor Claude Harrison in simply holding matters in abeyance, pending investigation of all the circumstances.

Ald. Margaret Christie said the home to be converted as a nursing home was sold following council's approval, and that the Egypt's Gabel Awila Dam, measuring 16,400 feet, is the longest in the world.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA SUNSHINE
RECORD TO DATE, 1952—
1,663.9 HOURS

SYNOPSIS—A ridge of high pressure has built over most of northern B.C. and by evening will cover all regions. It is bringing southward a supply of cool dry air which will give clear skies and cooler night time temperatures to most sections. Another weak Pacific storm will give some increase in cloud Saturday to the northern sections but all other regions should remain sunny.

Lowest overnight temperatures were 34 degrees at Prince George and 31 degrees at Fort Nelson in far northern B.C. However, with the cool air and clear skies to night ground frost is likely to occur in several interior valleys. The sunny skies should then bring daytime temperatures back to near normal.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE 9 A.M. FORECASTS

By PHIL LEE

(A) CARBINE WILLIAMS (Capitol)—When you have a young son who finds out via the derisive taunts of his school mates that you, his dad, have been in jail for murder, it is not the easiest thing in the world to explain. That was the predicament of David Marshall Williams, who rather than trust to his own version of the affair, has his explanation written down by the official rifle of the U.S. army.

Lee

Williams, played convincingly by veteran actor James Stewart, starts out as a youth convinced his own laws take precedence over the laws of society. To make easy money for his bride, Jean Hagen, he makes his own brew. When the federal agents come the moonshiners open fire and one of the officers is killed. A second degree murder rap is hung on Williams who is sentenced to jail for 30 years.

Skillfully the camera follows his plight through the prison and chain gangs of North Carolina, stints at solitary and periods of insubordination and vicious hate of humanity.

Final clash between tough warden Wendell Corey finds Williams seeing the light of day and using the prison workshop for his inventive genius which ended up with the carbine and eventually a pardon.

"Carbine Williams," in a day of pictures given to exaggeration and over-lushness, stands out clearly for its good taste in what might have been a grisly subject.

WOODWARD'S RADIO SHOW—Case (Royal)—The 10th weekly edition of the live talent show which plays every Thursday at the Royal for a 13-week run was of a higher calibre than usual with regard to talent, I thought. But it lacked its usual spontaneity.

This stemmed from lack of variety. I missed my young men with queer horns and instrumental duets which have featured other shows. A vibrating piano didn't help matters either. I was impressed by all the five contestants, but I think I enjoyed 18-year-old Irene Gray's (from Ladysmith and Nanaimo) violin selection, "Flight of the Bumble Bee" best, closely followed by the clear tone of the 14-year-old Victorian veteran, Larry Tod. Also on par were Bruce Dutton's piano playing of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and David Blamire's baritone, "Here In My Heart." Jerry Bone also sang well, "Open Road."

The department of the girls is generally improving, but the boys except for "veteran" Tod, should concentrate on keeping their hands in repose.

Fern Rath, pianist, last week's winner, was guest-artist. The Hugh Curtis-Stan Peters emceeing team was in its usual high gear while Jackie Sawyers again accompanied.

$800 Tex Beneke Deficit Means No 'More' Name Bands for Arena

Victoria's arena commissioners went out of the "name" band booking business Thursday after taking a box-office beating on the past three attractions.

Commissioners learned that the arena lost $800 on the Tex Beneke orchestra Tuesday night and recalled with regret that the same situation resulted when the Harry James band and a circus played at the building.

Victoria, they agreed, just isn't the kind of city that will support "name" band attractions. Said commissioner George I. Warren: "I hope we won't try any more experiments in promotion ourselves."

Commission chairman H. W. Davey, Q.C., regarded the booking of big bands into the arena as a "test" but added that if there was a next time, the arena commission should attempt to get the cost of orchestras underwritten by service clubs or private groups.

Arena manager Joe Dukowski suggested that next summer a local band should be booked into the arena on a weekly basis to build up interest, then, once the box office sales had reached a healthy point, commissioners could decide on the possibility of bringing in expensive talent.

As a post-script to the discussion, Mr. Davey added: "No one should be condemned for the loss."

The arena concession booths are going to start discounting U.S. silver immediately.

PITTSBURGH PRESIDENT SAYS RULES INJURIOUS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28 (AP)—John H. Harris, president of Pittsburgh Hornets, said he has telegraphed his seven fellow club owners of the American Hockey League to discuss new regulations he considers injurious to the Hornets.

Three rules Harris wants changed are:

1. Denial of the right of parent National Hockey League owners to recall players during the A.H.L. season and playoffs.
2. Reduction of squads from 16 to 13 members.
3. Team budget limit covering in a package sum all such outlays as salaries of coaches, players and trainers, transportation, and hotel bills and meals on the road.

During the 1951-52 campaign, the A.H.L. operated on a fairly liberal basis. In addition to their A.H.L. salaries, players owned by N.H.L. teams could also receive additional pay from the parent club. Such extra payments are banned this year.

Four Americans Gain Canadian Golf Finals

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28 (CP)—Ont. double eagled the par-5, 447-yard 10th when his second shot, a No. 4 wood, rolled in.

Campbell had trouble getting rid of Jim Blair of Jefferson City, Mo., in the fifth round, finally winning 1 up. He had easy sailing in the quarterfinals, thumping Doug Haskell of Seattle, 6 and 5.

Bouchey had two narrow squeaks, winning both his matches 1 up. His victims were Nick Westlock of Windsor, Ont., last year's finalist, and Jack Reynolds of Vancouver.

Annual Boxing Parley Sunday

With an interested eye cast towards the 1954 Empire Games, the Vancouver Island Amateur Boxing Association will hold its annual business meeting at the Chalmers Community Hall Sunday at 1:30.

Anyone interested in joining the association is asked to attend as there is a need of coaches and officials. Coaches are requested to bring a financial statement for the past year.

Cars will leave the Liberty Cafe at 11 Sunday morning.

RICHARDS REPORTED LEAVING TRI-CITY

Starr Sees Better W.I.L.L.

BY BILL WALKER

President Bill Starr of the San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League sees a bright future for the Western International League.

Here on a combined business and pleasure trip with his associates, Starr-Thursday night said the W.I.L.L. should benefit greatly from the open classification the P.C.L. will be operating under next year.

All but two players in the P.C.L. have agreed to waive draft rights, which speaks for itself, he asserted, and the players stand to benefit most under the plan.

"They have something to bargain with," he explained, "for by doing so they waive their rights to being drafted to the major leagues and naturally seek something in return."

Starr feels that the Coast League move will not only benefit baseball in the coast area but particularly will affect the W.I.L.L. because of its class A rating and close proximity.

He pointed out that Coast League clubs naturally would turn to the leagues in their own immediate area for assistance and also as an outlet for players not up to P.C.L. calibre and needing additional seasoning.

"You will likely see a larger infiltration of Coast League clubs into the W.I.L.L. next year than ever before," he said. "That alone should prove a boon to the league. Baseball is an institution and it must be preserved. And if we are to survive we must do our part to see that it is preserved."

"We at San Diego feel it will work," he said, "so much so that we are building a new park with a seating capacity of 15,000 at first, to be ready by 1954."

He admitted that he was scouting teams in the W.I.L.L. and that the Padres undoubtedly would buy or sign several players before the start of next season.

W.I.L.L. players have helped us in the past," he said, illustrating the point by mentioning Dick Faber and Bud Peterson as being a definite help to the Padres.

"Peterson," he said, "has a good chance to be a major leaguer and has improved tremendously this season."

Starr also liked Jehosie Heard saying, "he knows how to pitch."

Starr left the city for Vancouver today, where he will remain until Saturday, picking up the Padres in Portland on Labor Day.

Other league scuttlebutt has owner Dick Richards of the Tri-City Braves threatening to move his franchise from that area unless attendance picks up.

Richards admitted such a possibility during the Braves' visit here earlier in the week, but gave no indication as to where he would move.

"Attendance has been very poor this season," he said, "and unless it picks up, I have no other alternative. We can't break even on 60,000 a year, and at the rate we're going we'll be lucky to reach that figure."

Manager Hugh Luby of the Salem Senators is reported as favoring immediate consideration of the possibility of including Edmonton and Calgary in the W.I.L.L. next year.

Luby favors a pool plan with each team contributing a similar percentage toward traveling, due to the extra traveling expenses which would be involved.

General manager Bob Brown of the Vancouver Capilanos and business manager Reg Patterson of the Tyees had previously fostered such a plan with four Canadian and four U.S. teams comprising the circuit.

Bud Ross' lop-sided grin had been missing for the last couple of days but it was right back there as big and bright as a country sunrise Thursday night.

'PERTURBED' COUNCIL OKAYS BLEACHER TOLL

City Council gave permission Thursday for the Senior "A" Men's Softball League to levy a 35-cent bleacher charge on those taking in the semifinal provincial championship series between Victoria and Trail at Central Park. The price was boosted Wednesday night.

Under prior agreement between the league and the city, the most the league could charge was 25 cents. This, the league pointed out, was not enough to provide travel expense for the visitors.

Council acknowledged this, but was somewhat perturbed that the league had not sent in its application earlier. Aldermen couldn't "investigate" the matter since the playoffs started last Wednesday.

Blackwell's Purchase Puzzles Majors

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The mystery of the seven National League clubs passing up Ewell Blackwell for the $10,000 waiver price was only partially explained today as baseball executives gave their reasons for allowing the former Cincinnati ace to go to the New York Yankees.

"Blackwell's through! He can't help us,"

That was the consensus among National League moguls. Apparently the world champion Yankees don't agree or they would never have shelled out some $50,000 plus four players to get the 29-year-old right-hander.

Conceding that Blackwell is not the pitcher he once was, he still is far from finished, at least in the opinion of some American Leaguers. For it was leaked that general managers Hank Greenberg of Cleveland and Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox made overtures for him.

The Yankees gave up a pretty fair pitcher in southpaw Johnny Schmitz and three players from their minor league farms—outfielders Jim Greengrass, Bob Marquez and pitcher Ernie Nevel.

ANONYMOUS FAN HONORS PITCHER STAN TENNING

Stan Tenning has a host of friends in senior A softball circles.

One of those friends, who wishes to remain anonymous, paid a great tribute to Tenning at Central Park Thursday night during the playoff game between Forest Products and Trail.

The unknown fan left a package at the press box with the instructions that it be presented to Tenning some time during the game.

Walt Summerfeldt handled the presentation and the package was found to contain a small silver trophy, fittingly inscribed, "To Stan Tenning—a true sportsman."

Tenning, who won the hearts of local sports fans with his courageous pitching for Chinese Students in the semi-finals, was given a great ovation by the crowd.

LORINO WINS 23RD

Granny Makes Task Simpler

Ben Lorino won his 23rd game of the W.I.L. season Thursday night, but Granny Gladstone deserves two big assists.

Gladstone, the league run-batted-in king, added to his total with his 14th and 15th home runs, the second a prodigious clout, to get the Tyees out from under an early 3-0 deficit and on the road to an eventual 7-3 decision over Salem Senators.

Gladstone hit his first four-master in the sixth inning with Bob Moniz and Cec Garriott riding the cushions by virtue of walks, to tie the score at 3-3.

He hit his second in the seventh with Pries, who had previously doubled home Moniz and Garriott, scoring ahead of him.

Gladstone batted in five runs, bringing his season's total to 111, and scored two, picking up a double in the fourth inning for Salem took a two-run lead in the first inning when Bill White, the ex-Athletic, crashed a triple off the centre field wall, scoring Bill Spaeter, and Dick Bartle, yet another ex-Victorian, followed with a double to score White.

White again was the thorn in the side of Lorino in the fourth, opening with a double and scoring on a single by Art Thrasher, yet one more Athletic of bygone days.

Lorino left the bases loaded in the fifth when momentarily, bothered by control trouble, striking out Jim Deyo to end that particular threat. And again in the eighth, he left three Senators stranded, two bases on balls causing the temporary grief.

He struck out the side in the ninth.

Jim Clark was sidelined for the second straight game, being confined to bed with a slight fever, while Chuck Abernathy did not dress, his gimpy leg acting up again.

Bill Prior will be Garriott's choice tonight with Salem's mentor, Hugh Luby counting on Vince DiBiasi, the ex-Portland right-hander to square the series.

Spokane Indians defeated Wenatchee Chiefs 8-6, but time is running out on the tribe in their bid to overtake the Tyees as any combination of 10-Tyee victories and Spokane defeats will assure the pennant for the Tyees.

Tyees meet Spokane next week in Spokane when it is likely the Indians' fate will be sealed for good.

In other games Thursday:

Yakima edged Lewiston 11-9, and Tri-City nipped Vancouver 4-1.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

Game officials and veteran sportsmen today 'came up' with the news that surveys in favorite island hunting areas indicate a good supply of grouse and deer when nimrods take to the game trails early next month.

They were referring particularly to the Cowichan and Campbell River-Sayward areas, the two sectors that annually draw the most of the hunting clan. But the boys who look for these things say the deer population is good all over.

First legal target in the island will be band-tailed pigeon, not gunned by many hunters. The 24-day season opens Sept. 6. Bag limit is 10 a day, 50 for the season. McGee Swamp, behind Shawnigan Lake, is rated as one of the more fruitful spots.

Blue grouse are next on the open season list, opening Sept. 13, closing Oct. 31. Bag limit, six a day, 24 for the season. Hunters are not allowed to have any more than two days' bag limit in their possession at any one time.

Buck deer can be shot starting Sept. 20, ending Nov. 9. Only two bucks are allowed any one hunter for the season, no more than one in their possession at any one time.

Deer tags can be secured now at the city Elliott Street game office, said island game department head, Inspector George Stevenson. Firearms license for this year is up from $3 to $4.

"I've traveled over the most-hunted areas of the island to size up possibilities for the open season; I've seen signs of deer and I would say the grouse situation looks good," said the inspector. He thought the bird supply in the Robertson River country, Cowichan, was particularly promising.

The bridge crossing Chemainus River in Hillcrest country has been wiped out. Lower island sportsmen's clubs are now negotiating for another span. Inspector Stevenson, however, says there's a good food about 400 yards up from the bridge suitable for a car. No water deeper than 10 inches, he said. Barring flood rains, anyone can cross.

Ruffed grouse (Willow) season is from Oct. 18 to Nov. 9. Bag limit is two a day. There is a scarcity of this game bird on the island.

Remember, too, the "no shooting" law in regard to California quail.

Cock pheasant season is from Oct. 18 to Nov. 9; two allowed a day, 10 for the season. Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association officials shortly will start negotiations for a repeat on the hunter-farmer good-relations plan operated in Saanich and Central Saanich last year. It makes those lands available to well-behaved club members. Properties involved are marked by signs.

Inspector Stevenson is joined by veteran sportsmen in urging all hunters to "be sure you see what you are shooting at before squeezing the trigger."

Cream of bow-and-arrow shooters in B.C. and some from across the border, about 60 in all, will be in action starting Saturday afternoon at 2 at the Luxton grounds of the Rangers in the annual island and provincial title meet. They'll gun for island laurels Saturday, for B.C. awards on Sunday and Monday, competition starting each day at 10 a.m.

Among local hopes to win archery laurels are Bob Copeman and wife, Bess, (women's champion of Alberta before coming here), and Bill Carnes and Jack Miller. Holidaying will result in some local artists not being present, but among competitors will be Jim Stewart and wife, Irene.

Shooting grounds are off the Happy Valley Road, which leads off to the left after reaching Glen Lake stores' intersection on Sooke Road. It will be well-marked.

Important matters are on agenda for the Sept. 8 meeting of Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association at Goldstream clubhouse.

Included will be discussion on the proposed race track on the flats. The clubhouse will be scene of a dance, Sept. 6, at 9 p.m., open to all.

Wes Fulton spent his recent holiday fishing in Saanich Inlet with Jack McNeeley of Marshall Wells, Vancouver, and Ken Simpson. Wes claims "it's the best fishing I've enjoyed in years." They averaged four-jacks or springs a day, wound up with a 28-pounder. Fulton's 12½-pounder was sixth on the ladder derby fishoff last Sunday.

Fishing winners in recent Naval Motor Transport Section of H.M.C. Dockyard in inlet: First, C. Francis, 26½ pounds; second, F. Wulfs, 21 pounds. Consolation winners, H. J. Clark, G. C. Fay and Miss Doreen Fashley.

Sid Sidaway says he's starting to catch fish now; figures it's because of the red shrubbery he's growing on the upper lip. . . Mill Bay and Deep Cove now are considered top grise fishing waters by Stan Williams. . . Some grise off break-water now. . . Hunters are appealed to by the game department, game scientists and wardens to turn in every band they find on a bird; yes, even seagulls and other ordinary-looking small birds. Information as to where shot or found is very valuable in bird conservation. . . Jack Harris says late evening fly fishing is getting results at Shawnigan Lake. He reported that Jack Grey and Rod Smith got some other night. . . He couldn't remember the name, but said one fellow came into the store the other day to report he'd caught eight trout on troll in Thetis Lake.

A Douglas Lake fan himself, Harris says Douglas (Cobble Hill) is also producing trout in the evening. . . Greg "Joe" Allen writes down from Port Alberni (he's with Nahmint Lodge) that tree fishing is now tops. At writing time he'd personally taken 47½ and 24½-pounders. . . Coal Island waters, out from Canoe Cove, near Sidney, a hot spot for coho and springs now, reports Joe Gibault. He got four nice ones Wednesday night; says fishermen getting results with plugs, flasher-minnow and other lures. . . Another Labor Day week-end feature on the local front is the newly-formed Esquimalt and District Anglers' Association four-day derby in waters of Esquimalt Harbor and over to Brechin Lodge and Albert Head. It starts Friday noon, ends Monday night.

The schedule clearly favors Cleveland Indians in their quest of the 1952 American League pennant, but one disturbing factor in the otherwise serene picture is the last-place Detroit Tigers.
